

The Scholarship of Teaching and Learning at EMU

---

Volume 3 *Spiraling Upwards: EMU Faculty
Transform Through the Scholarship of Teaching and Learning*

Article 2

---

2010

Biographies of Contributors

Follow this and additional works at: <http://commons.emich.edu/sotl>

---

Recommended Citation

(2010) "Biographies of Contributors," The Scholarship of Teaching and Learning at EMU: Vol. 3 , Article 2.
Available at: <http://commons.emich.edu/sotl/vol3/iss1/2>

This Article is brought to you for free and open access by the Bruce K. Nelson Faculty Development Center at DigitalCommons@EMU. It has been accepted for inclusion in The Scholarship of Teaching and Learning at EMU by an authorized editor of DigitalCommons@EMU. For more information, please contact lib-ir@emich.edu.

BIOGRAPHIES OF CONTRIBUTORS

Irene Mass Ametrano is a Professor in Counseling within the Leadership & Counseling Department at Eastern Michigan University. She is a Licensed Professional Counselor in the state of Michigan, a National Certified Counselor, and an Approved Clinical Supervisor. She holds an Ed.D. in Counseling Psychology from Rutgers University. Her research interests include crisis intervention, clinical supervision, clinical mental health counseling, and ethical and legal issues in counseling. She is also a member of several professional associations within counseling and psychology including the American Psychological Association and American Counseling Association.

Doris Fields is a Professor of Communication and Basic Course Director at Eastern Michigan University in the Department of Communication, Media, and Theatre Arts. She received her B.S. and her M.A. from Eastern Michigan University and her Ph.D. from Wayne State University. Her research focuses on cultural and racial competencies. She has been awarded several teaching awards including: EMU Alumni Teaching Excellence Award, Most Valuable Professor Award presented by the Eastern Michigan Men's Basketball Team, Teaching Recognition by the TAU Kappa Epsilon Chapter, Nominee for the Celebration of Student Success Award, NAACP-EMU 12th Annual Image Award, and W.E.B. Dubois Teaching Award.

Ana Claudia Harten is an Associate Professor in Special Education at Eastern Michigan University. She received her Doctorate in Educational Psychology from the University of Texas at Austin; Master's Degrees in Speech-Language Pathology from Eastern Michigan University and in Cognitive Psychology from Federal University of Pernambuco in Brazil; and her Bachelor's Degree in Speech-Language Pathology from Catholic University of Pernambuco in Brazil. Her research interests include acquired neurogenic cognitive-communication disorders, dysphagia, voice disorders, multicultural issues in Speech-Language Pathology, aphasia, right-hemisphere damage, TBI, dementia, dysarthria, and speech and swallowing disorders associated with head and neck cancer.

Russell Jones is a Full-Time Lecturer in the History and Philosophy Department at Eastern Michigan University. He earned his Ph.D. from Case Western University, M.A. from Eastern Michigan University, and B.A. from the College of Wooster. In addition to his work at Eastern Michigan University, he has served as a lecturer at Wayne State University and Lansing Community College. His research interests include the American cultural history of technology, Michigan history, public history and history pedagogy.

Jacqueline Larose is an Associate Professor in Teacher Education at Eastern Michigan University. She holds a permanent New York State Teaching Certification in a variety of areas. She began her career teaching English as a Second Language to students at the elementary, middle, and high school levels. She received her Ph.D. in Curriculum, Teaching, and Educational Policy from Michigan State University. Her research focuses on analysis of children's and young adult literature and the reading and teaching of such literature across the curriculum. She is a recipient of the Ronald W. Collins Distinguished Faculty Award for Teaching II from Eastern Michigan University.

Peggy Liggitt is a Professor in the Biology Department at Eastern Michigan University. She earned her Ph.D. in Cellular and Molecular Biology from the University of Nevada-Reno and her undergraduate degree in Biology from Northern Arizona University. She has also been certified to teach grades 6-12 for biology, chemistry, and general science in Arizona, Nevada, and Wisconsin. Her research focus includes constructivist learning in science education, water quality, and humanized assessment practices. She is a recipient of the EMU Intentional Values Award: Quality of Student Learning Experiences – Secondary Methods Group and the EMU College of Education's Dean's Award – for the Professional Education Unit.

Michael McVey is an Associate Professor in Teacher Education at Eastern Michigan University. He received his Ed.D. from Northern Arizona University, his M.A. from the University of Arizona, and his B.A./B.Ed. from York University. At the University of Arizona, he served as a clinical assistant professor and clinical associate professor in the COE's Office of the Dean for initial teacher preparation. His research interests include emerging technologies in the classroom, digital scholarship, virtual mentoring of new teachers, immersive virtual worlds, and social media in education.

Shinming Shyu is an Associate Professor in the Graduate Program in Interior Design within the School of Visual and Built Environments at Eastern Michigan University. He received a Ph.D. in Architecture as well as three Master's Degrees from the University of Michigan (Masters of Science, Masters of Arts in Interior Design, and Masters of Architecture). His B.A. in Art and Design was from the National Taiwan Normal University, Taipei. His research interests include design knowledge, form-generation theory, building systems integration, and sustainable design.