

Enrollment for fall increases, credit hours up

EMU President John W. Porter announced last week that opening enrollment for the fall semester had increased five percent compared to 1984, when the highest enrollment in the history of the University was recorded.

Besides a five percent increase in enrollment, there also was a 2.5 percent increase in credit hours. Students have registered for 201,556 credit hours, 4,861 more than last year at this time.

It is the first time in EMU's 136-year history that 200,000 credit hours have been exceeded.

Official opening enrollment is measured after one-tenth of the semester has been completed, Sept. 12 this year. The official opening enrollment for fall 1985 is 20,166 students, an increase of 956 students or five percent over the 1984 opening enrollment of 19,210. Enrollment includes 15,621 undergraduate students, an increase of 594 students or four percent, and 4,545 graduate students, an increase of 362 students or 8.7 percent.

Enrollment increased in all categories tracked by the University. New student enrollment is 2,630 students, an increase of 129 students or 5.2 percent. Transfer student enrollment is 1,745 students, an increase of 74 students or 4.4 percent. There are 11,246 returning undergraduate students, an increase of 391 students or 3.6 percent.

The most significant increases were for new freshmen, up 7.2 percent, graduate students, up 8.7 percent, and returning seniors, up 278 students or 6.5 percent.

The University exceeded its enrollment targets in all categories except graduate enrollment. Enrollment targets for this fall included 2,550 new students, 1,700 transfer students, 10,750 returning undergraduate students, 15,000 total undergraduate students, 5,000 graduate students and 20,000 total enrollment.

The continuing trend of enrollment increases at the University comes at a time when the National Center for Education Statistics is predicting an enrollment decline of about one percent for the nation's public and private colleges and universities. The back-to-school forecast was issued by U.S. Secretary of Education William J. Bennett.

Women accounted for 57.1 percent of the total enrollment, an increase of 1.5 percent over fall 1984. There are 11,518 women enrolled compared to 8,648 men.

Credit hour production also increased for the fall semester. To date, students have enrolled for 201,556 credit hours, an increase of 4,681 credit hours or 2.5 percent over 1984. The credit hour total includes 179,213 undergraduate credit hours, an increase of 3,609 hours or 2.1 percent, and 22,343 graduate credit hours, an increase of 1,252 hours or 5.9 percent.

President Porter said that he was very pleased that enrollment had continued to show a strong increase this year. "I think this is an indication that the program improvements we have made, the emphasis we have placed on student services, the increases in our standards approved by the Board of Regents several years ago, are increasingly recognized by prospective students, their parents and high school and community college counselors.

"We have maintained our commitment to accessibility for all qualified students by freezing our tuition for the second year in a row yet we have made the academic program attractive to talented and gifted students through the implementation of our Honors Program. In addition, we are in an ideal location to serve the majority of people desiring to enroll in a post-secondary program in the state, he said.

"It is my anticipation, based on current enrollment, that we will exceed at least 20,500 students this fall, which would be the highest enrollment in the history of Eastern Michigan University," Porter predicted.

McKenny Bookstore Announces Fall Hours

Bookstore hours for the fall semester are 8 a.m. to 7 p.m., Monday through Thursday, and 8 a.m. to 5 p.m. on Fridays.

Planning for College of Business facility underway

Planning for a new College of Business facility is underway.

"A program statement for this new facility has been approved by the University's Board of Regents and authorized by Public Act 108 of the Public Acts of 1985. In my view, this is the only new facility the University will need to build during the remainder of this decade," said University President John W. Porter at a news conference last week.

"Our enrollment has reached a level where we find the university without adequate instructional and administrative space," said Porter. "Our highest priority on campus is to renovate Pierce Hall as a student services building. In order to move ahead with this project, we must locate our executive offices in either Welch Hall or a new College of Business facility," Porter continued.

"The architectural firm of Dow, Howell, Gilmore Associates, Inc., has been hired by the University to assist in the planning for this facility," Porter announced. "In consultation with the architects, we will be negotiating with the city of Ypsilanti on the possibility of selecting a site for this new facility in the downtown area which will contribute significantly to the development of a corridor between the Corporate Training Center and the central campus."

"This action reemphasizes the University's commitment to the economic development of downtown Ypsilanti," Porter said. "We perceive this project to be one of potential benefit to both the University and the city of Ypsilanti. We remain convinced that the revitalization of the downtown business district is important to the health and well-being of the community and the University, and we will use every opportunity available to support achievement of this goal."

The proposed new facility will range between 75,000 and 120,000 square feet and will include classrooms, faculty offices, departmental suites, administrative offices, laboratories, library facilities, lounge and student organization facilities and a Business Research Center.

Focus on Staff

Conley shares fond EMU memories

When Mary M. Conley came from Michigan's Upper Peninsula to attend Cleary Business College, she never dreamed she would work at Michigan State Normal College. On Feb. 14, 1955, when she began her employment at Michigan State Normal, it never occurred to her she would make a long-term commitment to the school. And earlier this year at her retirement reception, it seemed hard for her to believe 30 years had gone by.

Conley, former executive secretary to the vice president for business and finance, took many fond memories with her when she left EMU in June of this year. She had worked under four different presidents and had watched EMU go through three different name changes; from Michigan State Normal College to Eastern Michigan College in 1956 and to Eastern Michigan University in 1959.

She also watched EMU grow. "When I started here, there were 20 buildings on campus. That even included the maintenance building, the heating plant and the greenhouse," she said.

Conley recalls the years 1955 through 1970 as EMU's "growing years," and for good reason. During those 15 years, 12 academic buildings were added to campus, plus a host of residence halls and other student housing structures.

The Office of Business and Finance was in the middle of the Planning and Development Division and Conley enjoyed the planning and development aspect of her job. She dealt with all of the architects, contractors, subcontractors and vendors that were needed to construct the buildings. "Plus, we had to purchase a lot of property to make room for all the parking lots, buildings and the stadium. It was really interesting, just as if I was in real estate," she said.

After 1970, the planning and development functions came under the supervision of the Physical Plant, and Conley's job became less hectic. "I still had enough to do, don't get me wrong," she said laughingly. "It's just that a lot of the responsibilities that Business and Finance used to have were delegated to other divisions."

Not only did the old Business and Finance Division handle numerous administrative duties, it used to serve students in special capacities. "One of the things that I missed about the days before the division changed was that I didn't deal with the students as much as I used to. In recent years, the only students I saw either worked here or had serious problems," she said.

A few of the student-oriented functions Business and Finance used to supervise were the production of the Eastern Echo, the Aurora, Cellar Roots and the student bulletin. "I don't know how many times I've proofed that thing," Conley said with reference to the bulletin.

Business and Finance also performed many duties now handled by Information Services. According to Conley, in October of 1956, she typed the first edition of Eastern Staff Notes, the predecessor of Focus EMU.

"And I typed on the second electric typewriter ever used on campus," she recalled.

In her retirement, Conley plans to keep very busy. She intends to spend time with her small grandchildren and also at the golf course. And if "all else fails" she may even go back to school and study real estate.

What will life be like for Conley without EMU? "Lonely," she said. "It's going to be different not coming here every day. But I guess it's something I'm going to have to get used to."

"I'm sure going to miss this," she said. "After all, the time I spent here, and everything I've done, I've done for Eastern."

Art for Talented and Gifted at EMU

Every elementary and junior high school has at least a handful of students who show a strong interest or talent in art. Local teachers, counselors and administrators are encouraged to recommend those children to the Artag ("Art for the Gifted and Talented") program at EMU.

Artag, sponsored by the Art Department and Office of Continuing Education, is a Saturday morning program for 8 to 14 year-olds in the Ypsilanti/Ann Arbor area. An eight-week session is offered for both the fall and winter school semesters.

During the fall session, students will do three-dimensional projects such as plaster, papier mache and possibly a group sculpture. During the winter session, emphasis will be on two-dimensional projects.

Artag I, for grades four to six, meets in 202 Sherzer from 9-10:30 a.m. Supervised studio time is available until noon.

Artag II, for grades seven and eight, meets in 204 Sherzer from 10:30 a.m. until noon. Supervised studio time is available from 9 a.m. until the start of class.

Artag begins Saturday, Sept. 28 and runs until Saturday, Nov. 16. The cost is $35, and enrollment is limited to 25 students in each session. Dates for the winter semester will be announced later.

Registration forms are available from the Continuing Education Office in 321 Goodison. For more information, call 7-0407.

Research

Winter Released Time Appointments Available

The Office of Research Development will award seven, one-quarter released time appointments for Winter Semester to faculty interested in developing funding proposals to external sponsors.

Research, program development and creative projects that will have an impact upon the educational and research missions of the University are eligible for support. Preference will be given to applications that:

- 1) are from faculty who have never submitted an external proposal;
- 2) are from faculty that have not recently received a released time award;
- 3) propose interdisciplinary or institution-wide projects;
- 4) are revisions of earlier proposals that were not initially funded but have the potential for funding; and/or
- 5) propose new initiatives in contract learning.

The due date for receipt of applications is Monday, Oct. 21, 1985. Contact the ORD Office at 7-3090 for further information.

Faculty Research Development Internship Program

A one-quarter released time appointment will be awarded for Winter Semester to a faculty member willing to work with the Office of Research Development to enhance research and grant writing activities among faculty on campus.

Specifically, this program is designed to strengthen faculty leadership in research and grantsmanship, to provide the faculty interns with a variety of experiences to enhance their expertise in sponsored project development, to strengthen the linkages between ORD and academic departments and colleges and to enable ORD to be more active in supporting interdisciplinary projects.

Criteria for selecting Research Development Interns will include (a) the faculty person's experience and expertise in proposal development, (b) the faculty person's commitment to facilitating interdisciplinary projects, and (c) the faculty person's willingness to serve as a resource for other faculty regarding research and proposal development.

Application forms for this program are available by calling the Office of Research Development at 7-3090. The closing date for submitting applications is Monday, Oct. 21, 1985.

Evening Hours

Advising for evening undergraduate students will be in operation at 229 Pierce Hall (Academic Services Center) starting Monday, Sept. 30. Our past evening advising was offered in conjunction with the Graduate School in 116 Pierce Hall, but we are returning to our own office for evening appointments. Undergraduate evening students can call 7-2170 to arrange an evening appointment. We are open Monday through Thursday until 7 p.m.

The Graduate School Office will continue evening hours. Beginning Tuesday, Oct. 1, the office will be open from 8 a.m. to 5 p.m. on Mondays, Thursdays and Fridays, and from 8 a.m. to 7 p.m. on Tuesdays and Wednesdays. This office also will be open the nights of evening registration. During evening hours, routine business can be conducted and the assistant dean will be available for general advising appointments. Graduate students should contact the Graduate School at 7-3400 for information regarding evening appointments.

Instructional Support Center

Just a reminder to all faculty and staff about the many services available through the Instructional Support Center (ISC), Room 102 in the Library. Students will find information about tutoring in many academic disciplines, access to language and microcomputer labs, a wide range of workshops, and assistance in reading, writing, and other basic skills areas. All services are provided free of charge to EMU students. For more information, contact the ISC at 7-1380.

Automatic Withdrawal

Wednesday, Sept. 25 is the beginning of the automatic withdrawal period from individual courses. Any student who wishes to complete withdrawal must obtain the proper form at the Registration Office, Briggs Hall. The completed forms must be returned IN PERSON at Registration, and a receipt will be issued to the student as documentation that the withdrawal is officially completed. Evening students can pick up and return the withdrawal at The Academic Services Center (ASC), 229 Pierce.

Students should retain their receipts until grade reports are received to help in correcting any final grade error. A grade of "W" will be recorded on the students academic transcript for each withdrawal completed. If there are further questions, please contact either the Registration Office, 7-2300 or the ASC, 7-3344.

Participants

Several members of Eastern's faculty and staff recently have been active in numerous professional activities.

Drs. Eugene Jaworski and Robert M. Ward, professors in the Department of Geography and Geology, co-authored an article titled "Construction of Nuclear Power Plants and cost Recovery Policies in the U.S." for a recent issue of Environmental Professional.

Canadian one-act plays to premiere

"Border Crossings," the first new theatrical offering of the season at Eastern, will feature the area premieres of two Canadian one-act plays: "Babel Rap" by John Lazarus and "The Frog Galliard" by Christopher Dafoe.

The show is the brainchild of James Vezina, graduating senior in the department of Communication and Theatre Arts. Vezina, a native of Canada, transferred to EMU from the University of Windsor two years ago and is completing his B.A. with a major in Theatre Arts. The production is the first senior thesis project for the University Honors Program. Since a performance project rather than a paper was a natural choice, he has opted to present material from his homeland. Local audiences will remember Vezina as Prince Hal in "Henry IV Part I," Peachum in "The Threepenny Opera," Reynard in "Reynard the Fox," and most recently as Friar Laurence in "Romeo and Juliet." He will direct and act in both shows.

"Babel Rap" is a short comedy about two workers on the Tower of Babel. They exchange ideas about God, the tower and life in general with hilarious results. "The Frog Galliard" is a one-act play concerning the death of the Elizabethan poet Robert Greene. His friends and... others come by to pay their respects, among them the young William Shakespeare. Their confrontation is at once funny and thought-provoking.

Both plays will be presented Thursday, Oct. 3 through Saturday, Oct. 5 at 8 p.m. in the Lab theatre at the Quirk Building. Tickets are $1.50 at the door.

Dr. Quirico S. Samonte, professor of teacher education, served as guest speaker at the Basic Education Development Project (BEDP) conference held in Washington D.C., in August.

Dr. Stephen W. Brewer, Jr., professor in the Department of Chemistry, recently delivered a seminar titled "Emission Spectrometry of Electrically Vaporized Thin Films Applied to Trace Metal Determinations in Saline Solutions," at the University of Canterbury, in Christchurch, New Zealand. Brewer compiled the information for the seminar during work with Dr. R.D. Sacks, professor of chemistry at the University of Michigan.

Marjorie Lansing

Dr. Marjorie J. Lansing, professor of political science, recently delivered the keynote address to the Feminist Task Force at the annual meeting of the American Library Association in Chicago.

Lansing also appeared on a panel of four academicians who addressed a two-day meeting on electoral participation. The national meeting was sponsored by the National League of Women Voters Education Fund.

Dr. Donald Bennion, Associate Vice President of Academic Affairs, Dr. Marvin Pasch, head of the Department of Teacher Education and Dr. Warren S. Williams, professor in the Department of Teacher Education, recently presented a series of faculty workshops on "Improving Classroom Testing." The three workshops were designed to help University faculty assess their ability to construct tests that yield valid indications of student achievement.

Dr. John L. Ginther, professor of mathematics, recently visited elementary school classrooms in Trenton, Manchester, Ann Arbor and Ypsilanti to do presentations on computer mathematics and electronics.

Dr. W. Scott Westerman Jr., dean of the College of Education, has been elected president of the Michigan Association of Colleges for Teacher Education (MACTE).

Robert S. Corredera, executive-in-residence in the College of Business, recently participated in the Caribbean Basin Initiative and Latin American Automotive Conference in Ann Arbor. Corredera served as the moderator in a roundtable discussion on the Latin American Automotive Industry.

Leah Adams

Dr. Leah Adams, professor of teacher education, was selected to participate in the Summer Institute on the International Development Crisis and American Education, held at Las Palomas De Taos, New Mexico, in July. The conference featured topics on hunger, poverty, overpopulation, policy issues, women in development and technology transfer.

Dr. Donna M. Schmitt, professor of leadership and counseling, recently presented "Women in Leadership: Strategies for Professional Development," at the 16th annual National Training Program of Federally Employed Women in Detroit.

Dr. Barnabas A. Raczy, professor of political science, recently presented a paper titled "The Political Impact of the 1985 Electoral Reform in Hungary," at the annual meeting of the Michigan Academy of Science, Arts and Letters. The research for this presentation forms the nucleus of a larger project to be carried out this year with the help of a spring-summer research grant provided by EMU.

Faculty Council Corner

Dr. Michael Long is Faculty Council's new Academic Policies Chairperson for 1985-86. He replaces Betty Barber, who has held the position for two years.

Dr. Long has a Ph.D. in Medical Care Organization with an economics cognate from the University of Michigan. He was born and raised in Oxford, England, and thus comes by his penchant for academic issues by an early exposure to university life. He emigrated to the U.S. in 1962, and became a U.S. citizen in 1967.

Before coming to EMU in 1982, Dr. Long was graduate program director in the Department of Community Medicine, School of Medicine at Wayne State University. He taught medical, pharmacy, and graduate students, and also had administrative responsibility for the graduate program.

He currently is co-principal investigator in a research project funded by the Health Care Financing Administration to examine the "Impact of PPS (Prospective Payment System) on the Quality of Care." He also has published articles in the field of health economics, and has done consulting work for the Wayne County Medical Society, the Greater Detroit Area Health Council, and the Commission on Professional and Hospital Activities.

When questioned on his philosophy toward academic issues, Long said; "I think it is incumbent upon all who would be a university professor to be involved in research that will move the frontiers of the body of knowledge in their field. I believe that there is more to being a professor than just teaching. I believe it is a way of life, which means full-time commitment."

Long added that "a university is a place of higher learning and its prime purpose is the education of the young people of our community. Students should come motivated and prepared to learn from committed professors. They should be encouraged, guided and directed but not pampered."

Dr. Long has three grown sons, the youngest a junior at Eastern. He is resident of Pittsfield Township. Of a Saturday, he may be found on the greensward, refereeing collegiate soccer.

OUT WITH THE OLD . . . In August, the old Placement Center on the east end of campus was leveled. That area is now being landscaped for a more pleasing east entrance to EMU. Photographer Dick Schwarze captured the power shovel in action.
