KEAL AWARD RECIPIENTS ANNOUNCED AT EMU

Seven female faculty members have been selected as recipients of the Josephine Nevins Keal Endowment Awards for fall 1981.

The awards, made twice each year, are awarded to female faculty members in the name of Keal, a 1901 graduate of the University. Funds from Keal's $50,000 endowment to the University have been earmarked "to be used by the University to augment the income of female faculty members and to assist them in advancing their professional competence and rank through study and research."

The seven fall recipients included:

--Jo Ann Aebersold, an assistant professor in the Department of Foreign Languages and Bilingual Studies. Aebersold will use her funds to attend the 1982 Teachers of English to Speakers of Other Languages convention. She is president of the Michigan chapter of the organization.

--Dr. Leah Adams, professor in the Department of Teacher Education. Adams will use her award to conduct a computer search of literature for a study of reading materials in early childhood education.

--Jacqueline Hoop, assistant professor of nursing. Hoop will conduct a study of professional autonomy as exercised by nurses, pharmacists and physicians' assistants.

--Dr. Marilyn Lake, an associate professor of special education. Lake will conduct a computer search of literature for a project to integrate students with special needs into a regular classroom.

--Dr. Susan Long, an associate professor of accounting and finance. Long will use her award to obtain financial futures data from the Chicago Board of Trust and analyze it to predict financial futures.

--Dr. Ruby Meis, a professor of home economics. Meis will use her award to purchase videotapes to develop instructional materials for an undergraduate methods course for teaching consumer home economics.

--And Doris Smith, an associate professor of art. Smith will use funds from her award to attend the International Design Conference in Aspen, Colo., in June.

The Keal Award recipients were selected by a committee of faculty members coordinated by the Women's Commission.

EMU CHILD CARE CENTER IS SPONSORING HOLIDAY BAZAAR

Greeting cards, stationery, ornaments and craft items, made by children in the University's Child Care Center, will be offered for sale at a holiday bazaar Monday and Tuesday, Dec. 7 and 8 in the lobby of McKenny Union from 9 a.m. to 5 p.m.

Proceeds from the bazaar will be used to purchase classroom equipment for the center and to provide child care scholarships for children whose parents are unable to pay for child care because of cutbacks in state support.

Eastern's Child Care Center is entirely self-supporting, operating on funds it generates by charging tuition and from special fund-raising events.

Among the items to be offered for sale are craft items, pot holders, wreaths and Christmas ornaments. In addition, a raffle will be held for a handmade afghan and a lighted ceramic Christmas tree. Numerous items, donated by EMU students and parents, also will be offered for sale.

Individuals with items to donate to the Child Care Center bazaar should contact Tobi Bartlett, coordinator of the center, at 487-1126.

PRINTS FROM EMU COLLECTION ON DISPLAY IN SILL GALLERY

Three recently-acquired folios of prints from the permanent collection of the Art Department will be featured in an exhibit in Sill Gallery through Dec. 11.

The most recent additions to the EMU print collection include five prints by Californian Mel Ramos, an assortment of New York cityscapes by such artists as Alice Neel and Romare Bearden, and several silkscreens.

Approximately 35 prints will be displayed in Sill Gallery, including works by Pablo Picasso, Nathan Olivera, Eduardo Paolozzi, Lester Johnson, Will Barnet, Michael Ponce De Leon and Paul Wunderlich.

Sill Gallery is open from 8 a.m. to 5 p.m. Monday through Friday. The exhibit is free and open to the public.

EMU COLLEGIUM CONCERT SET FOR TODAY

Mozart's Mass in D Major will be the featured work performed in a concert by the Collegium Musicum at 8 p.m. today in Holy Trinity Chapel, 511 W. Forest Ave.

Dr. Anthony Iannaccone, associate professor in the EMU music department, will direct the 32 member vocal and 16 member instrumental chamber ensembles. Other compositions on the program range from the 16th to 18th centuries.

Much of the music performed by the Collegium Musicum is not available in modern editions, but is transcribed and arranged from old scores and rare manuscripts by Iannaccone. The ensemble takes special delight in rescuing these old manuscripts from neglect in libraries and performing them for the public.

The concert is free and the public is invited to attend.
