A group of well-known librarians and library consultants will meet with Eastern Michigan College library science students during a coffee hour, Thursday, March 20, from 4:00 p.m. to 5:00 p.m. at Starkweather Hall. Margaret Robinson, associate professor in charge of Library Science at EMC, will host Mary Gaver, Rutgers University, president of the American Association of School Librarians; Charlotte Coye, instructor in library education at Wayne State University and president of the Michigan Association of School Librarians; Elinor Yurmgeyer, school library consultant, Michigan State Library, Lansing; and Kenneth Vance, executive secretary of the MASL and consultant to the Bureau of School Services at the University of Michigan.

On March 21-22, Miss Robinson and a contingent of thirty EMC students in library science will attend the state meeting of the MASL in Ann Arbor.
