THE SUMMER SESSION

In the following article, Julius M. Robinson, Director of the Summer Session at Eastern Michigan, discusses the advantages of enrolling in a summer session, particularly for new freshmen; some of the special features of Eastern Michigan University's 1962 summer session program; and plans for the future.

*Julius M. Robinson,
Director of Summer Session*

The summer session today is very much on the minds of many young people who want to accelerate their educational progress. It is also on the minds of those seeking optimum utilization of campus facilities in the face of an enrollment explosion in our colleges and universities.

In this scientific age when there is such urgency for educational leadership, emphasis is on quality education attained at an accelerated rate. It is a safe assumption that the summer session of today is playing a greater role in the year-round educational program.

The recent growth in the summer session enrollment at Eastern is evidence of the new trend in summer school development. The enrollment for the 1961 summer session was 2,615, or an increase of approximately 19% over that of 1960.

With this increase in number of students for the summer session, there is an increased responsibility on the part of educational institutions to develop a comprehensive program of courses and activities which will accommodate people with varying needs. With this in mind, the 1962 summer session has been planned to meet the needs of the following groups: (1) teachers and school administrators who wish to expand their educational horizons by study at the graduate or undergraduate levels; (2) regular undergraduate and graduate students who wish to accelerate the completion of their degree requirements; (3) high school graduates who are eager to accelerate their educational progress by beginning their work toward a degree in the summer; (4) persons who desire to take specialized courses but are not working toward a degree; and (5) persons who desire to attend special-interest workshops, conferences, and lectures.

In addition to an expanded offering of regular year-round undergraduate and graduate courses, the EMU 1962 summer session program includes workshops, institutes, and special programs.

Workshops

A nature interpretation workshop will be held during the post session from August 6 to August 24 at the Nature Center of Kensington Metropolitan Park, just east of Brighton. It will provide experience in the identification of local plants and animals and in leadership of nature hikes and field trips.

A field study workshop in biology will be held June 10-16 at the Conservation Training School at Higgins Lake under the joint auspices of Eastern, Central, and Western Michigan Universities, and the Michigan Department of Conservation. This workshop will be concerned with conservation, field bird study, and a general view of the plant and animal kingdoms.

A resource identification, development, and use workshop will be held at the Higgins Lake Conservation School August 6-18. This is a two-week camping experience concerned with field techniques, observations, resources, and outdoor living.

Two workshops in business education are new developments in the summer session program for 1962. One workshop, designed to provide an understanding of technological developments in office equipment, will be held on campus, July 9-14. A second workshop in business education on campus, July 16-21, is planned to develop further effectiveness of instruction in typewriting.

Some of the other workshops of varying nature and duration that will be offered as part of the summer session programs on campus this summer are educational television, contemporary education, improving the instructional program, problems in representative government, and recent developments in clothing and textiles.

Institutes

The National Science Foundation has granted funds for two Institutes to be held on campus during the summer session. An Institute for elementary science teachers will be offered from June 18 through July 27 by the departments of geography and biology and the Michigan Department of Conservation. A second Institute for high school and junior high school teachers will be offered from June 25 to August 3 through the combined efforts of the departments of biology, geography, mathematics, physics and astronomy, and chemistry. Students accepted for the Institutes will receive stipends from the foundation, which will cover expenses for them and their families during the duration of the Institutes.

Special Programs and Events

Again, Eastern Michigan University will sponsor several travel tours to different parts of the world. A European Adventure tour will be made from June 20 to August 18 to England, Holland, Germany, Austria, Italy, and France. A second annual Central American and Mexican tour will be made August 3-27. This tour will include the Yucatan, Guatemala, El Salvador, and Mexico City. Also listed is a natural science tour to national parks, nature reserves, botanical gardens, natural history museums, and game management areas in England, Scotland, Denmark, Norway, Sweden, Finland, Germany, Switzerland, France, Netherlands, and Belgium.

The Tenth Annual Summer Session Book Fair will be held on campus, July 19 and 20, at which a guest speaker will be featured. The exhibit will include children's text books, story books, and a large variety of educational materials.

A seminar in Choral and Vocal Art will be held on campus August 20-24. Richard P. Condie, Salt Lake Tabernacle Choir, will be the Seminar Choral Conductor. Marko Rothmuller, Indiana University, will be the voice clinician.

A broad program of activities including lectures, religious services, concerts, films, dances, and field trips will be provided for the summer session.

Projections for the Future

Because of increased enrollments and the necessity for optimum utilization of educational facilities, expanding the summer session program is one desirable way to acquire greater efficiency from valuable physical and human resources.

Eastern Michigan University, as most universities, is seeking ways to expand its summer program so that more people can be accommodated with the same enriched educational program provided throughout the regular academic year.

Freshmen should be encouraged to start their college careers in the summer rather than wait until September. Several advantages will accrue to those who start in the summer. Starting in the summer will enable many to complete their degree requirements more rapidly. For many students it will make the transition from high school to college less difficult. Fewer demands on the students' time during the summer than in the fall semester make the adjustment to college life easier. A summer session for freshmen will enable some to discover they are not equipped to go to college; these will withdraw in favor of other pursuits, thereby leaving space in the fall semester for additional freshmen.

The University will, of course, provide these freshmen with the same courses provided others and the finest type of instruction of which the institution is capable. Also, the institution will provide adequate counseling and assistance to these students in planning their programs.

The summer session should also provide some of the dynamics of change which an institution's curriculum undergoes over a period of a few years. New courses can be tried out in the summer or the ground work prepared for the development of new areas of instruction.

Eastern Michigan University is fortunate in having a Division of Field Services which cooperates with the Summer Session in developing new courses and services for its students on campus and off campus.

All the workshop courses and some of the special programs offered during the summer have been made possible by the Division of Field Services. Combining the financial and personnel resources of the two organizations should result in the development of some unique programs. This cooperative effort of the Division of Field Services and the Summer Session provides unlimited opportunities for Eastern Michigan University to serve the needs of the people in Southeastern Michigan.

DEPARTMENT OF PSYCHOLOGY ESTABLISHED

At a meeting in Lansing, Tuesday, February 27, the State Board of Education approved the establishment of a department of Psychology in the Eastern Michigan University College of Arts and Sciences as of July 1, 1962. The authorization was granted on the recommendation of and after a two-year study by an eight-member faculty committee charged with the responsibility of determining the need for such a department.

"Creation of the new department will permit the University to meet more adequately the needs of students desiring to specialize in psychology and go on to graduate work in that field," said Bruce K. Nelson, vice president for instruction. "It will also serve students who are preparing for careers in public service, business, industry, and in the professions of law, medicine, and nursing."

All general psychology courses will be taught in the new department. Educational psychology will continue to be taught in the department of Education.

NATURAL SCIENCE DEPARTMENT NAME CHANGED

Eastern Michigan University's department of Natural Science is now known as the department of Biology, as the result of action taken by the State Board of Education in Lansing, Friday, March 23.

According to Robert O. Belcher, head of the department, the name change reflects the University's emphasis on biology at the graduate level and does not indicate that the University is abandoning interest in natural science.

Honors Accorded Clarke E. Davis

Several honors have been conferred on Clarke E. Davis, '12, well-known former President of the EMU Alumni Association, since his passing from the presidential chair in 1960. Formal recognition of Clarke Davis's service to the Alumni Association was made at the September 28, 1960, meeting of the Board of Directors of the Alumni Association, at which the following resolution was made and carried unanimously:

"We tender our deep and great appreciation for Dr. Clarke Davis's service to the Alumni Association as President for four years and member of the Board of Directors for a longer time."

The following distinctions commemorate Dr. Davis's long and distinguished career in the field of chemistry.

Clarke Davis was made Emeritus Member of the Chemists Club of New York City in 1960, after having been a member since 1919.

On December 19, 1960, the American Chemical Society, in recognition of Dr. Davis's having been a member of the American Chemical Society continuously for forty-four years and having met various requirements for such a distinction, conferred on him emeritus status, with all its attendant privileges. Clarke Davis later received a scroll from the New York Section of the American Chemical Society, dated May 5, 1961, and signed by Fisher Gaffin, Chairman, and A. B. Kemper, Secretary, "In grateful recognition of able leadership and unselfish service as Chairman from November 1923 to January 1925."

On October 26, 1961, Dr. Davis received a letter welcoming him, as a Member Emeritus of the American Chemical Society, to the Michigan State University Section of the Society.

C. H. Runciman, Lowell Leader, Honored

C. H. Runciman, Sr., Eastern Michigan University graduate of the class of 1911, recipient of an honorary degree from EMU in 1952, and director on the Alumni Board, was honored at a surprise party January 29, 1962, at the C. H. Runciman Company in Lowell, Michigan. The celebration, initiated by well-wishing friends and employees, marked the founding forty-five years ago, by a young school superintendent from Grosse Ile, embarking on a new career, of what became one of Michigan's leading bean, feed, and grain handling-shipping companies and a far-flung multi-million dollar business.

Runciman's roles as an educator and a businessman were recalled. He had taught first at Millington, where he coached the town's boys to a state baseball championship; at Saginaw Arthur Hill, where he coached a first-rated football team; and in the island school system in the lower Detroit River.

The Lowell businessman helped found the famed Lowell Showboat and served as its interlocutor for many years. He served on the Lowell School Board as member and president, and as member and chairman of the state Welfare Commission. His concern for civic affairs is further demonstrated by his consistent financial and leadership support of 4-H club work and other youth programs at state, county, and local levels.

Two EMU Buildings Named

Two buildings on the Eastern Michigan University campus were named to commemorate distinguished former faculty members following action taken by the State Board of Education at a meeting in Lansing, March 23. The University Library was named the Mark Jefferson Library and the Arts Building is now known as R. Clyde Ford Hall.

Mark Jefferson, a professor of geography from 1901 until his retirement in 1939, was born and educated in Massachusetts, served as an astronomer in Argentina from 1883-86, and received many awards for service in geography circles. He was a charter member of the Association of American Geographers and its president in 1916. He was awarded two gold medals by the American Geographical Society and received the distinguished service award of the National Council of Geography Teachers. He died in 1949 at the age of 86.

R. Clyde Ford, for 37 years head of the department of Modern Languages, was active in Ypsilanti affairs. He founded the Twenty Club and was a charter member of the Ypsilanti Rotary Club. Born in 1870, he studied at Albion College, spent 18 months in Singapore, Malaya, and graduated from Albion in 1894. He earned a Ph.D. degree at the University of Munich in Germany in 1900 and came to the Eastern campus as head of the department in 1903. He continued to live in Ypsilanti after his retirement in 1940 until his death in 1951 at the age of 81.

Round-Robin Letters Continue For Half Century

Correspondence from the Alumni Records Office to members of this year's Golden Anniversary Class of 1912 uncovered a most unusual story. Mrs. Harvey Berger (ADELAIDE CUSHING '12) of Royal Oak, Michigan, wrote to tell us that eleven girls who roomed together at 409 Cross Street during the years 1910-1912, have kept up a round-robin letter for many years and have had several reunions during the past ten or twelve years. Nine of the eleven were in the class of 1912, and all eleven are still alive after fifty years and still keep in touch with one another.

Besides Mrs. Berger, the other members of the 1912 Class are: Mrs. John Weichel (ADELA A. AHN) of Sandusky, Ohio, and Bradenton, Florida; Mrs. H. Reynolds (MARY ALDER-TON) of Long Beach, Mississippi; Mrs. Boylan (ANNE A. CALLOW) of Boyne City; Miss HAZEL B. CHAMBERS of Howard City; Mrs. Robert Joliffe (ETHEL A. CONNOR) of Plymouth; Mrs. Bert Hock (JULA FARTHING) of Flushing; Mrs. G. H. Martin (ALFREDA ENGELMAN) of Howard City, Michigan, and Bonita Springs, Florida; Mrs. E. Hopkins (ILA ENGELMAN) of Lyons, Michigan, and Bonita Springs, Florida.

The other alumnae who lived on Cross Street and are members of the round-robin group are Mrs. L. F. Field (BLANCHE HICKMAN '13) of Ann Arbor, and Mrs. Abram Newell (RE-BECA WHITE '13) of Coral, Michigan.

The Alumni Association hopes June 2 will be another occasion for a happy reunion.
