- I. Praise the Lord ye nations all, and rejoice before him.
Hallelujah. Amen.
- II. 1. Like Etna's dread volcano, see the ample forge,
Large heaps upon large heaps of jetty fuel gorge,
While Salamander like, the pond'rous anchor lies,
Glutt'd with vivid fire, thro' all its pores that flies,
The dingy anchormiths to renovate their strength,
Stretched out in sleep are snoring,
Waiting the master's signal when the tackle's force
Shall like split rocks the anchor from the fire divorce.
While as old Vulcan's Cyclops did the anvil bang,
In deaf'ning concert shall their pond'rous hammer clang.
2. The preparations thicken, with forks the fire they goad
And now twelve anchormiths the heaving bellows load,
While armed from every danger, and in grim array
Anxious as howling demons, waiting for their prey
The forge the anchor yields from out its fiery maw
Which on the anvil prone, the cavern shouts, Hurrah!
And now the scorched beholders want the power to gaze,
Faint with its heat, and dazzled with its pow'rful rays,
While as old Vulcan's Cyclops did the anvil bang
To forge Jove's thunderbolts, their pond'rous hammer clang.
- III. 1. Love, I must not tarry here,
I must go to-morrow.
When I part from one so dear,
Bitter is my sorrow;
Doating on thee with a heart
That could ne'er deceive thee.
Now must I leave thee.
2. Hearts that once are knit by love,
To each other plighted,
Though the sun and stars may move,
Still remain united.
One will suffer deadly pain,
Feel as tho' 'twere rent in twain.
When it quits the other.
3. If the breeze that passes by,
Near thy cheeks should hover,
Think it is a tender sigh
Lent thee by thy lover.
For the sighs will countless be
I shall daily send thee.
Dreaming of thee ever.
