

LOEX QUARTERLY

Affiliated with Eastern Michigan University's Bruce T. Halle Library

Volume 35, Number 2, Summer 2008

The start of another school year brings the latest call for proposals for the upcoming LOEX Conference in Albuquerque, New Mexico on April 30 - May 2, 2009. The deadline to submit proposals is Friday, November 21, 2008. Details about the online proposal submission process, along with even more about the conference, can be found at <http://www.loexconference.org/>

Additionally, LOEX will once again have poster sessions at the conference for current LIS graduate students and, new this year, for library residents. If you are not familiar with library residency programs, they give recent library graduates an opportunity to gain one to two years of work experience in a structured, supportive environment. Institutions such as Ohio State, Vanderbilt, and Cornell sponsor these type of programs. We thought it would be beneficial to everyone to give both students and residents a chance to build their CVs and show us some of their latest, most interesting projects. If you know any students or library residents who have good work that they could put on a poster to share at the LOEX conference, please prompt them to submit a poster proposal. The deadline is January 23, 2009.

In the meantime, I hope you enjoy this latest issue of the Quarterly.

Have a great semester,

Brad Sietz
