

LOEX QUARTERLY

Affiliated with Eastern Michigan University's Bruce T. Halle Library

Volume 34, Number 2, Summer 2007

In the midst of another busy (is there any other kind?) school year, there is activity a-plenty at LOEX. We are currently in the final stages of the revamp of the Instructional Resources section of the web site; additionally, there is work being done to improve the online archiving of past issues of the Quarterly. And of course, there is all the prep work on the next LOEX conference.

The 2008 Conference is about 5 months away -- May 1-3 in Oak Brook, Illinois. The conference registration fee has not been finalized, but it will be no more than last year ($290) and very likely a bit less. Registration will again be online-only; it is on Friday, February 8, 2008 at 1PM Eastern. More information about the conference can be found at our website, <http://www.loexconference.org/>

Regarding the last conference, this issue of the Quarterly has a short report on LOEX 2007 in San Diego, to give those who couldn't attend a bit more insight into what went on. Also, this Quarterly includes a couple of short book reviews by yours truly – I had read a couple of good books at the end of the summer and I thought I would share them.

This is technically the Summer issue – I got a bit behind while wrapping up my first LOEX conference – but the Fall issue is almost done and will come out before the end of the year to get back on schedule.

Happy instructing,
Brad Sietz
Director
