

LOEX QUARTERLY

Affiliated with Eastern Michigan University's Bruce T. Halle Library

Volume 37, Number 2, Summer 2010

This latest issue of the Quarterly will be the last solely published online using EagleSpace (our DSpace-backed repository). After this issue, LOEX will move forward utilizing our new repository, Digital Commons @ EMU. This will allow us to have RSS feeds and IP address authentication, for those who want it, along with a cleaner format. To sign up for RSS, that will be available via a link when the next issue is launched; to sign up for IP authentication, please email the address(es) and institution name to loex\_ipaddress@live.com.

Additionally, the next issue will be the last printed for the entire membership. We are currently in the membership renewal process and some institutions have decided to go "Electronic-only."

In other news, this issue premieres a new feature, the "Quarterly Interview." In order to replace Ross' Rave, I discussed many ideas with the LOEX Advisory Board. After some discussion, we thought a short conversation-based interview could be a good way to not only highlight library leaders (like our inaugural interviewee, Beth Woodard) but also lesser known, up & coming librarians. In this way, hopefully there is something for everybody—if you're already familiar with a librarian, perhaps you can still learn a nice little nugget or two about what makes them successful; if it's someone new to you, it helps you become aware of those who are doing interesting work in library instruction. If you have any feedback, or ideas for an interview subject, please email me at loex@emich.edu.

Until next time!

Brad Sietz
Director
