Many activities planned Humanitarian Days to feature lecture by well-known psychiatrist

Special public lectures by Martin Luther King III, noted psychiatrist Dr. Alvin Poussaint, former National Basketball Association All-Star Bill Russell and Sen. Ed Pierce will highlight activities planned for Humanitarian Days on campus Jan. 12 through 16.

The week's activities will begin Monday, Jan. 12, with a film lecture presented by Dr. Thomas Walker, director of the Latin American Studies Program at Ohio University. Walker will discuss "Nicaragua: The Struggle for Human Dignity and Justice" in the McKenny Union Ballroom at 9:30 a.m. The lecture is free.

At noon Monday, a memorial service for Rev. Martin Luther King Jr. will be held in Pease Auditorium. Martin Luther King III will attend the ceremony and will receive a special EMU Humanitarian Award on behalf of his mother, Mrs. Coretta Scott King. Renowned civil rights leader Rosa Parks also will attend the memorial service and a luncheon in her honor to be held in the Ballroom of McKenny Union at 1 p.m. Tickets for the luncheon are $10.

At 2:30 p.m. a seminar on Mahatma Gandhi will be conducted by Dr. Sandy MacLean, associate vice president of Student Affairs at EMU and Dr. Jiu Hwa Upshur, an associate professor in the Department of History and Philosophy. The lecture will be held in the Tower Room of McKenny Union.

At 4 p.m. Joe Collins, author of "Food First: Beyond the Myth of Scarcity" and "Global Reach: The Power of the Multinational Corporations," will attend a book signing party at the McKenny Union Bookstore. At 7 p.m. Collins will lecture on "Foreign Food Aid, Who Does It Help?" in the McKenny Union Ballroom. Collins is the co-founder of the Institute for Food and Development.

Tuesday, Jan. 13, a seminar titled "Race Relations in the Military" will be presented by Lucius Theus, a retired major general in the U.S. Air Force. Theus, who serves as assistant corporate comptroller for the Bendix Corp., once served as chairman of the Department of Defense Inter-Service Task Force on Education and Race Relations. His talk will be held in Guildhall of McKenny Union at 1 p.m.

Alvin Poussaint

At 3:30 p.m. Tuesday, Ron Woods, director of Eastern's Afro American Studies Program, will discuss "Developments in African/U.S. Relations" in Guildhall of McKenny Union. Also, Mayor George Goodman of Ypsilanti will conduct a seminar on campus. The time of the seminar will be announced by the Office of Minority Affairs at EMU.

Tuesday's activities will be highlighted with a lecture titled "Turmoil in America—A Humanitarian Response" to be given by Dr. Alvin Poussaint, a well-known psychiatrist and author, in Roosevelt Auditorium at 8 p.m. Dr. Poussaint, a member of the medical staff at Boston's Children's Hospital, has published numerous articles on race relations, including the book "Why Blacks Kill Blacks." Also, he serves as a consultant and has received numerous awards for his community activities. A reception will be held immediately following Poussaint's lecture in the Goodison Hall Lounge. There will be a $2 admission charge for the lecture; $1.50 for students and senior citizens.

Wednesday, Jan. 14, former Ypsilanti mayor John Burton will be honored as one of the original members of the United Auto Workers in the McKenny Union Ballroom at 6 p.m. At 8 p.m. Thomas Clifford, retired U.S. Air Force major general who serves as a plant manager for the General Motors Corp., Cadillac Fleetwood Division, will discuss "Human Relations" in the McKenny Union Ballroom.

A presentation highlighting the Latino experience in Michigan will begin special events planned for Thursday, Jan. 15. The informative session will be held at the Latino mural in the east entry of Ford Hall at 1 p.m.

At 8 p.m. Thursday, Bill Russell, former National Basketball Association All-Star and author, will lecture in Pease Auditorium. A cocktail hour and dinner with Russell will precede the lecture at 5 p.m. Tickets, at $10 each, are available from Eastern's Office of Minority Affairs. A free reception for Russell will be held following his lecture in the SnackBar of McKenny Union.

Friday, Jan. 16, humanitarian organizations at EMU will sponsor displays depicting their contributions to humanitarianism in the lobby of McKenny Union all day.

At noon, Sen. Ed Pierce will lecture on "Personal Involvement in Humanitarianism" in the Alumni Lounge of McKenny Union.

All of the events scheduled during Humanitarian Days at EMU are open to the public. For further information on individual events, contact the EMU Office of Minority Affairs at 487-0267.

Student workers get raise

The Board of Regents approved a pay increase of 25 cents for all student workers at EMU at its monthly meeting Dec. 14.

The pay increase approved by Regents is in compliance with the federal minimum wage law and will be effective Jan. 1, 1981.

EMU students working in the two categories of "unskilled" jobs on campus will earn $3.35 and $3.45 per hour with the increase. Student workers with "skilled" jobs will earn $3.60 and $3.70 per hour as of Jan. 1.

Students with special skills, such as computer operators, will earn between $3.71 and $4.55 per hour with the pay increase.

Regents pass 4.9 percent reduction of general fund

The Board of Regents approved a 4.9 percent reduction in the University's general fund budget for 1980-81 at its monthly meeting Dec. 14.

The reduction decreases the University's general fund budget from $53,573,923 approved by Regents June 18, 1980 to $50,939,231, an overall decrease in the budget of $2,634,692.

The budget revision is the latest in a series of reductions in the University's budget. EMU Regents reduced the University's 1980-81 general fund budget in November as a result of a decrease in an expected state appropriation of $36,061,975. Because of the loss in revenue from the state, University officials reduced the University's operating budget by approximately $1.5 million to $52,011,864.

Nov. 12, Governor Milliken recommended a further reduction in EMU's state appropriation. Based on his recommendation, the University's appropriation this year was estimated to be $32,505,515, resulting in another $1.1 million reduction bringing the general fund total at EMU to $50,939,231.

According to an executive summary submitted to the Board of Regents, the loss in revenue from the state appropriation has been offset by increased funding from tuition, the increased use of the general fund balance and other transfers.

The latest reductions in the EMU general fund budget included decreases amounting to $717,472 in program reductions and changes, $93,891 in parking support, $47,882 for an insurance rebate and $215,885 for merit pay for non-bargained-for employees. Also, EMU faculty will make reductions of about $75,143 and the University's sick leave reserve has been reduced by $82,500.

The targeted reductions for functional areas of the University included: $535,669 for Instruction; $35,700 for Research; $137,462 for Public Service; $229,739 for Academic Support; $382,481 for Student Services; $385,927 for Institutional Support; $136,733 for Operation and Maintenance of Plant; $69,635 in Scholarships and Fellowships; $468,106 in Prorates and Distributions and $253,240 in Retirements.

EMU Regents were informed in the general fund budget revision summary that the appropriation process for higher education is not yet completed. Michigan's state legislature has approved an appropriation for EMU of $32,983,563; $500,000 more than the figure incorporated into Eastern's revised budget for 1980-81.

University officials informed Regents that a further reduction in the state appropriation is expected during the next several months in the form of an executive order from Governor Milliken.

Porter appointed to Mott Foundation board

The Mott Foundation has announced the appointment of two new board members to its Board of Trustees. They are Dr. Willa B. Player, a former president of Bennett College in North Carolina and past director of the Office of Institutional Development for the Office of U. S. Education; and Dr. John W. Porter, EMU president.

The appointment of the two new trustees marks the first expansion of the Board of Trustees since 1971 when William S. Ballenger, Jr., Charles B. Cummings and George L. Whyel, all of Flint, were added to the board. The addition of Player and Porter brings the board membership to 11.

In making the announcement William S. White, president and chief executive officer of the Foundation, noted that in recent years the Foundation has expanded the scope of its grant making activities—in terms of program areas as well as geography—in fact, both Player and Porter bring to the board expertise in many of these areas such as youth unemployment and black higher education.

"Both of these individuals have had many years of experience in education, both on the national and the state level," White said. "We find that we are increasingly becoming involved with these levels of government and such knowledge and leadership will be important to the foundation in the coming years."

The Charles Stewart Mott Foundation is a private foundation with assets of about

Insurance questions redirected to another office

Effective immediately, all matters relating to insurance should be referred to Mary Brooks, assistant to the vice-president for business, at 487-2031. Robert Andrews of the University Budget Office is no longer in charge of this responsibility.

Attention: opera lovers

A new campus organization is forming for EMU opera lovers who would enjoy opera listening evenings and generally sharing with other opera aficionados. Call Michael Kulczynski at the Office of Campus Life, 487-3045, for more information.

Deadline for tuition refund announced

Staff and faculty members eligible to take classes for the winter semester must submit their tuition refund applications to the Staff Benefits Office by Monday, Jan. 12. The forms may be picked up at the office in Welch Hall.

Test your wits in tournament

Eastern's Office of Campus Life will sponsor the University's first College Bowl Tournament Jan. 25 and 26 in McKenny Union. College Bowl, touted as "the varsity sport of the mind," is a quiz game in which two teams of four players answer questions to test their knowledge in a variety of areas.

Any four students may form a team to compete in the tournament. Information and registration forms are available from the Office of Campus Life, 117 Goodison Hall. The deadline for team registrations is Thursday, Jan. 8. There is a $5 registration fee per team. For more information call 487-3045.

Use common sense for your safety, campus police advise

We are becoming exposed to the criminal elements on and off campus that threaten the security of the university community. The University police are available 24 hours a day, 7 days a week, 52 weeks a year to assist you. Crime is a problem everyone must deal with, not just the police. By developing common sense habits designed to protect yourself and your property, you can greatly reduce the chance of becoming the victim of a crime. Do not make the mistake of saying, "It can't happen to me," because it can if precautions are not taken.

Crime on college campuses is not a new phenomenon, but it has been a steadily increasing problem affecting students, staff and faculty alike. At Eastern, the University police have made great strides in reducing this problem to a point where the campus has become one of the safest places to live in the entire Washtenaw County area.

However, this came about only through the active concern and cooperation between the campus population and the University police.

If you live off campus, what police agency you call will depend upon where you live since there are several separate police agencies with jurisdictional area adjacent to or in close proximity of the campus. The best way to determine whom to call, should a problem arise, is to ask your landlord or a neighbor when you move in. If you are still in doubt, call the campus police (487-1222) and we can tell you whom to call.

Don't wait until you need the police in a hurry to look up the phone number, do it when you move in and place the number in a conspicuous location close to the phone.

Cooperation in deterring crime can only make Eastern a safer place to live, learn and work.

Drama for mentally impaired planned

A "developmental drama" program for mentally impaired adults that stresses simple dramatic exercises for the enjoyment and growth of participants will be held at EMU.

The program will begin Jan. 14 and will be held each Wednesday through April 1 at 6:45 to 7:45 p.m.

The program will be conducted by Dr. Sandra McClennen, an associate professor in Eastern's Department of Special Education, and Thelma McDaniel, a professor in the Department of Speech and Dramatic Arts at EMU. Both professors have had extensive experience as a team in working with developmental drama groups.

Due to the nature of the course, enrollment has been limited to 10 adults. Registrants must be at least 18 years-old and should not be disqualified from attending due to a physical disability. (Individuals in wheelchairs or with limited movement can be included in program activities.)

Also, program participants must be able to make their needs known through language (sign or gesture) and program leaders will not be able to provide any assistance in personal care during the exercises. Since it is important that participants feel safe and free to enjoy the experience, it is requested that only those who can contribute to such an environment register for the program.

The registration fee for the course is $10. For further information, or to register, contact G. Patrick Barley in the Division of Continuing Education at EMU by calling 487-0312.

School psychologists will benefit from workshop

A workshop designed for school psychologists, school psychology trainees and other professionals responsible for evaluating children for appropriate educational programs will be held at EMU.

The four-day workshop will be held on consecutive Fridays, from Jan. 23 through Feb. 13, from 8:30 a.m. to 4:30 p.m. in McKenny Union.

Dr. Robert Anderson, EMU psychology professor and coordinator of the EMU school psychology program, will present the workshop.

The workshop will teach participants the skills required to administer, score, profile and interpret the measures of the System of Multicultural Pluralistic Assessment. Jane Mercer, the author of SOMPA, has designed the basic model of this workshop. All participants in the EMU workshop will earn a SOMPA certificate awarded through the Institute for Pluralistic Assessment, Research and Training.

Workshop participants should be trained to administer the WISC-R and the Bender-Gestalt (Koppitz Method).

After completing the training, workshop participants will be prepared to conduct parent interviews, administer the student assessment measures, score and profile each measure, integrate these scores with such traditional measures as WISC-R and Bender-Gestalt, develop a non-biased estimate of learning potential and incorporate medical, social and psychological information to facilitate planning.

The cost for the workshop, including materials, is $195 per person. Enrollment is limited to 35 participants. The registration deadline is Jan. 9; late registrants will be considered on a space-available basis.

For further information or to register, call Patrick Barley, Office of Continuing Education, at 487-0312.

$407 million that awards more than 350 grants a year for programs fostering community self improvement through education, citizen involvement and community leadership and development processes.

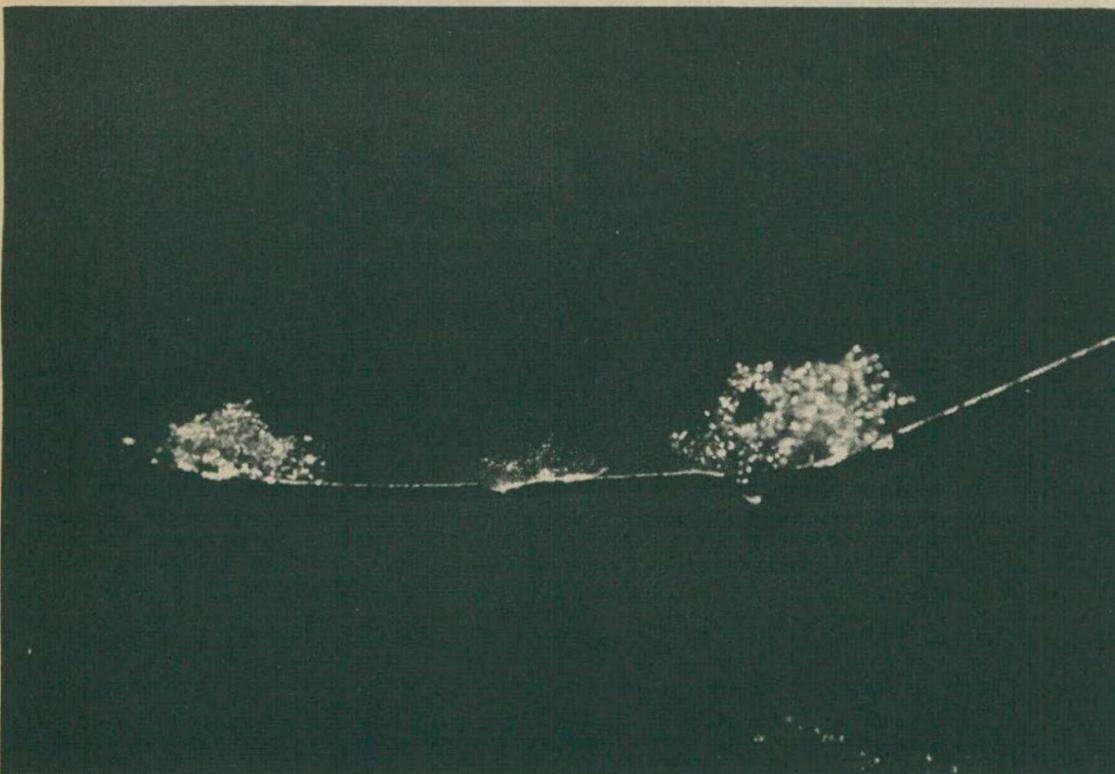

Other members of the Board of Trustees include Joseph A. Anderson and C.S. Harding Mott of Flint, Maryanne Mott of Santa Barbara, Calif., C.S. Harding Mott II of Holly, Dr. Harold P. Rodes of Key Bisquayne, Fla., and William S. White of Grand Blanc, Mrs.

William S. Mott of Flint is a trustee emeritus.

President Porter said he was very honored to be selected as a member of the board. "The Mott Foundation is the second largest foundation in the state and the eighth largest in the nation," he said. "This is quite prestigious for EMU and will add an additional dimension to my own experiences. I look forward to serving."

Stress in nursing profession topic of workshop

Has stress in your nursing profession got you down? Would you like to be able to understand and cope with various personal and professional sources of stress in nursing?

If so, a two-day workshop titled "Success with Nursing Stress" to be held at EMU is just for you.

The workshop will be held Jan. 29 and 30 and will offer information, group discussion sessions and individual exercises and practical approaches to managing stress.

Also, the same two-day workshop will be offered Feb. 26 and 27 at the Southfield Sheraton Inn, 17017 West Nine Mile Road, Southfield.

Three professionals will present both workshops. Barry Beder is a psychotherapist and director of Clinical Consulting Services, Inc. in Southfield. He earned a master's degree in psychiatric social work in 1975 and has designed and conducted many stress management programs for companies and various professions.

Eileen O'Connell is a registered nurse and earned a master's degree in psychiatric nursing in 1976. Currently, she is a psychotherapist in private practice in Southfield. Also O'Connell is an adjunct clinical instructor at Oakland University where she previously was a nursing instructor.

Terri Atkin White is a registered nurse and earned a master's degree in psychiatric nursing in 1976. She is the director of follow-up and clinical nursing specialist at the Children's Psychiatric Hospital in Ann Arbor. Also, she is a psychotherapist in private practice in Southfield and Ann Arbor. In addition, White has taught nursing and psychology at the University of Michigan and recently served as acting clinical director of psychiatric nursing for the University of Michigan Psychiatric Hospitals.

The workshop will begin Jan. 29 with a registration period from 8:30 to 9 a.m. The sessions will last from 9 a.m. to 4:30 p.m. both days.

Specifically, the first day of the workshop will include discussion of what stress is, recognizing and understanding the symptoms, personalizing the theories about stress and a personal action plan for managing stress which includes deep relaxation training and self-hypnosis skills.

The second day of the workshop will detail the myth and reality of nursing as a source of stress and the means of managing those stresses, nursing as a career choice in the 1980s and reconciling personal and professional demands.

The cost of the two-day workshop, which includes lunch, is $85; $75 for EMU alumni. A 10 percent discount rate is available if an organization sends three or more people to the workshop.

Housing for the January workshop is available at Hoyt Conference Center and rooms are available at the Southfield Sheraton Inn for the February workshop.

For more information or a registration form, call the EMU Division of Continuing Education at 487-0314.

The workshops are sponsored by the EMU Division of Continuing Education in cooperation with Clinical Consulting Services, Inc. of Southfield.

Participants

E. Lorene Hall, associate professor of geography and geology, chaired a session titled "Global Images" at the National Council for Geographic Education conference titled "Interdependence and the Contemporary World" held in October in Des Moines, Iowa.

Dr. W. A. Kloosterman, professor of guidance and counseling, was a presenter and panel member at the annual convention of the Michigan Personnel and Guidance Association, held in Detroit in December.

EMU reaffirms affirmative action policy

EMU once again reaffirms its long-standing policy of offering fair and equal opportunity in employment and education for everyone regardless of race, color, religion, sex, age, national origin, physical or mental handicap, or veteran status. Accordingly, it is the policy of the University to take affirmative action to ensure that all personnel actions, such as (but not limited to) recruitment, selection, rates of compensation, promotion, retirement, transfers, fringe benefits, layoffs, return from layoff, University training and educational programs, and social and recreational programs are administered without proscribed discrimination and other non-merit factors.

Representative of EMU's continued commitment to the principles of equal opportunity and affirmative action is its development of affirmative action plans and policy statements to promote and ensure equality of opportunity for applicants for employment and/or admission and for employees covered under the relevant state and federal laws and regulations. For your use and benefit, summary copies of these plans are available to all applicants through the Personnel

Office and the Affirmative Action Office, located in Room 112, Welch Hall; and for employees and students in the Center of Educational Resources (library) and the offices of all department heads, directors, deans, all represented union presidents and each vice president of the University. These copies are generally available for your review and use during normal working hours, 8 a.m. to 5 p.m., Monday through Friday.

If you have questions or other concerns, we invite you to first contact your department head, or call Lewis Griffin, EMU affirmative action director, at 487-0016. The affirmative action director has responsibility for general administration of the University's Equal Employment Opportunity/Affirmative Action Programs. The University invites and encourages minority group members including American Indians/Alaskan Natives, Asians/Pacific Islanders, Blacks/Non-Hispanic, Hispanics, women, veterans and handicapped individuals who are potential applicants or present employees to identify themselves to the Affirmative Action Office if they wish to avail themselves of the opportunities and benefits the Affirmative Action Plan provides in the employment process for each respective class.

The following is excerpts from the EMU Affirmative Action Plan:

The University is a government contractor subject to Section 402 of the Vietnam Era Veterans Readjustment Assistance Act of 1974 which requires government contractors to take affirmative action to employ and advance in employment qualified disabled veterans and veterans of the Vietnam Era. If you are a disabled veteran covered by this program and would like to be considered under the affirmative action program, please tell us. This information is voluntary and refusal to provide it will not subject you to discharge or disciplinary treatment. Information obtained concerning individuals shall be kept confidential, except that (i) supervisors and managers be informed regarding restrictions on the work or duties of disabled veterans, and regarding necessary accommodations, and (ii) first aid personnel may be informed, when and to the extent appropriate, if the condition might require emergency treatment. In order to assure proper placement of all employees, we do request that you answer the following question:

"If you have a disability which might affect your performance or create a hazard to yourself or others in connection with the job for which you are applying, please state the following: (1) the skills and procedures you use or intend to use to perform the job notwithstanding the disability and (2) the accommodations which we could make which would enable you to perform the and safely, including special equipment, changes in the physical layout of the job, elimination of certain duties in relation to the job or other accommodations."

1. The University is a government contractor subject to section 503 of the Rehabilitation Act of 1973, which requires government contractors to take affirmative action to employ and advance in employment qualified handicapped individuals. If you have such a handicap and would like to be considered under the affirmative action program, please tell us. Submission of this information is voluntary and refusal to provide it will not subject you to discharge or disciplinary treatment. Information obtained concerning individuals shall be kept confidential, except that (i) supervisors and managers may be informed regarding restrictions on the work or duties of handicapped individuals, and regarding necessary accommodations, (ii) first aid and safety personnel may be informed, when and to the extent appropriate, if the condition might require emergency treatment, and (iii) government officials investigating compliance with the Act shall be informed.

2. If you are handicapped, we would like to include you under the affirmative action program. It would assist us if you tell us about (1) any special methods, skills and procedures which qualify you for positions that you might not otherwise be able to do because of your handicap, so that you will be considered for any position of that kind, and (2) the accommodations which we could make which would enable you to perform the job properly and safely, including special equipment, changes in the physical layout of the job, elimination of certain duties relating to the job, or other accommodations.

David Tammany's paintings, like the one above, tend to be two dimensional and quite large.

Non-objective, color-oriented acrylic paintings by art professor David Tammany are on display in Sill Gallery through Jan. 30. These two photographs are close-ups of sections of the paintings.

David Tammany's color-oriented acrylic paintings now on display

David Tammany, a professor in the Art Department, will exhibit 20 of his acrylic paintings in an upcoming faculty exhibit at Sill Gallery that opens Jan. 5 and continues through Jan. 30.

According to Tammany, who has taught at Eastern since 1966, all of the works to be displayed are non-objective, color-oriented paintings.

"They're non-representational... The most recent paintings have a lot to do with the material used—the thickness of the paint and how it affects color," the EMU artist said.

Tammany explained that most of his works tend to be two dimensional and are quite large. He said he likes working with acrylic paint because of the build-up of the paint on the canvas and also because his canvases can be stretched without cracking the paint.

"I like the color and the clean-up a little bit better with acrylics. They (acrylics) also seem a little more manipulatable for me as an artist," Tammany said.

Tammany, a native of Wichita, Kan., said that the emphasis of his EMU exhibit is on texture and its relationship to color. An Ann Arbor resident, he earned his bachelor's degree from Wichita State University in 1964 and a master's degree from Tulane University in 1966.

The EMU artist has won numerous awards for his work including prizes at the Detroit Institute of Arts' All-Michigan Show, the Flint Institute's Purchase Award, the National Polymer Exhibition Award and the Gulf State Painting Exhibition.

Also, Tammany has won recognition for his paintings at the Michiana Exhibition in South Bend, Ind.; the Bloomfield Hills Art Association's Drawing Exhibition and the Little Rock, Ark., Delta Exhibition.

The free art exhibit is open to the public in Sill Gallery from 8 a.m. to 5 p.m. Monday through Friday.

Editors Note: Focus on Faculty does not appear in this issue of Focus EMU due to space limitations. It will, however, resume with the next issue of Focus EMU, Jan. 13.

The New Grove

The standard multi-volume musical reference work in any library is the Grove Dictionary of Music and Musicians. Now, we have a new "Grove," the sixth edition of the work originally published in 1879. This new 20-volume work completely revises the material in the first five editions. (Stanley Sadie, the editor, started thinking about a new edition in 1969, and the Acquisitions Division of Eastern's library placed an order with its English jobber in October, 1977 to ensure our receiving a copy when it was available.) Finally, early in December all the volumes arrived and are now on the shelves in the Humanities Division reference section.

Many factors make the Grove the special work it is. First, its aim is to treat the people who have written music. More than half the entries are on composers, from ancient to modern times. Other categories covered include performers, but only those that have or are of international reputation, or of some special important national achievement; musical scholars, writers on music, theorists and administrators.

Still, other groups comprise people eminent in other arts whose work was in some way important to music and musicians. Entries will also be found on certain dancers, designers, theatre producers, men of letters, philosophers, scientists and others whose contributions entitle them to a place in a work dealing with musical history. Lastly, it includes material on musical patrons and people concerned in the business of music—in its printing and publishing. In short, its 18,000 pages discuss every point of music that has ever perplexed or interested you.

Almost 2,500 people wrote for the new Grove, and each article in the dictionary is signed by the individual who wrote the piece. While it is still a British publication, by the editor's own estimate British contributors now make-up only about a fifth of the total number. About a third of the contributors are American.

Factors that make the dictionary so special are its bibliographies, the illustrations of pictures and musical examples, the lists of musical works, cross references, the inclusion of entries of pseudonyms, and the index of terms used. Its thoroughly scholarly approach does not detract from its readability.

Definitely, it has been worthwhile to wait for the "new" Grove.

Career Planning & Placement

Placement registration for seniors

We need faculty assistance to motivate seniors!

It may be a sign of the economic times or the media blitz about the job market that creates the situation. Whatever it is, the fact remains that it takes a great deal of encouragement to motivate seniors to register with the Career Planning and Placement Center.

Seniors or graduate students looking for employment cannot possibly be as successful alone as they can be when advised by professional counselors. Our counselors work with hundreds of applicants and thousands of job opportunities each year. We can save students time, minimize their effort—and in the final analysis—protect their future by using their experiences in terms of their capabilities.

So please help a senior and encourage them to register for employment support services at the Career Planning and Placement Center. Services are free to all students.
