Fall enrollment increases; credit hour production up

Fall enrollment has increased 4.5 percent here compared to enrollment figures from one year ago. Total enrollment at the University is 18,889 as of Sept. 16, the official opening enrollment reporting date. 1982 opening enrollment was 18,079 students.

University officials had predicted as much as a two percent decline in enrollment for 1983-84. The budgeted opening enrollment figure is 17,975. If the trend of recent years holds true, the University will add another 600 to 700 students in off campus classes which would predict an official fall enrollment in excess of 19,500 students.

Enrollment has increased in all categories. Freshman enrollment is up three percent, from 2,313 in 1982 to 2,382 this year, an increase of 69 students. The largest percentage increase is at the transfer level. The number of students who have transferred to Eastern has increased 11.8 percent, from 1,486 to 1,662, an increase of 176 students. The total number of returning undergraduate students is 10,489, an increase of 513 students over the 1982 total of 9,976 or 5.1 percent. There are also 142 new special students for a total undergraduate student enrollment of 14,675, an increase of 749 students or 5.4 percent. In 1982, there were 13,926 undergraduate students.

Graduate enrollment, which has been declining in recent years, also increased this year. The total graduate enrollment is 4,214, an increase of 61 students or 1.5 percent over the 1982 enrollment of 4,153.

Broken down by class, the University has enrolled 3,657 freshmen, 3,450 sophomores, 3,230 juniors, 4,195 seniors, 143 special students and 4,214 graduate students. There are 10,409 women students at the University, 7,970 undergraduates and 2,439 graduate students. Men students total 8,480, 6,705 undergraduates and 1,775 graduate students. Women students comprise 55.1 percent of the student body, 54.3 percent at the undergraduate level and 57.9 percent at the graduate level.

Increases in credit hour production parallel the increases in enrollment. Total credit hour production is up 4.5 percent from 184,666 in 1982 to 192,958. Credit hour production at the undergraduate level is up 4.9 percent from 163,427 to 171,461 and graduate credit hour production is up 1.2 percent from 21,239 to 21,497.

University President John W. Porter said he was "extremely pleased" with the opening enrollment data.

"This enrollment report," Porter said, "indicates to me the success we have had in communicating the strength of our academic programs, the beauty of our campus, the many opportunities for involvement at EMU and our concern that students be financially able to attend college if they choose to. This significant increase in enrollment at all levels, new students, transfer students and returning students, speaks well of the image Eastern Michigan University is projecting throughout Michigan and northern Ohio.

"I am especially gratified that we have increased our undergraduate enrollment for the fifth year in a row, despite predictions at the state level that we would suffer drastic declines, and that we have been able to reverse the recent trend of declines at the graduate level.

"This enrollment report indicates to me that we have a healthy institution both financially and academically, and naturally, I am very pleased."

Drum virtuoso Buddy Rich and his band, featuring Steve Marcus on tenor sax and Andy Fusco on alto sax, will appear in concert Saturday, Oct. 1 at 8 p.m. in Eastern's Pease Auditorium highlighting EMU's Parent's Day activities. Tickets are $4.50 to $8 and can be purchased at the EMU Campus Life Box Office, 117 Goodison, from 9 a.m. through 4 p.m., Monday through Friday.

Homecoming to feature distinguished alumni

An alumni awards banquet featuring several of Eastern's distinguished alumni will be held Saturday, Oct. 15 at 7 p.m. at the Hoyt Conference Center as part of Homecoming festivities.

Those to be honored as distinguished alumni include Lieutenant General Oren E. DeHaven, director for logistics for the Joint Chiefs of Staff in Washington, D.C.; Judge Francis O'Brien, retired judge of the Juvenile Court, Washtenaw County; Dr. William Cruikshank, professor of child and family health and director emeritus for the Institute for the Study of Mental Retardation and Related Disabilities at the University of Michigan; and Alma Strong Redick, vocational counselor with the Los Angeles

Unified School District, Los Angeles, Calif.

Alumni Honors Awards will be presented to Dr. Donald Cameron, executive director of the National Education Association, and posthumously, to the late Dr. Ronald R. Edmonds, former professor in the Department of Teacher Education at Michigan State University and senior researcher for the Institute for Research on Teaching.

EMU's Distinguished Alumnus Award is given to graduates of 25 years or more who have distinguished themselves and the University in service to mankind, and demonstrated a continuing interest in the University.

DeHaven, 58, graduated from EMU in 1948 with his bachelor's degree in economics. He is the senior joint staff logistician of the Department of Defense. Prior to this appointment, DeHaven served in numerous positions with the U.S. Army, including commander at the U.S. Army Logistics Center in Fort Lee, Va., and as commanding officer of the 54th General Support Group and Sixth Transportation Battalion in Vietnam.

O'Brien, 75, received his bachelor's degree from Eastern in 1930. In 1949, he was appointed by the Ann Arbor City Council to fill the unexpired term for Municipal Judge and was elected to this office for three consecutive terms without opposition.

In 1966, O'Brien was elected Probate Judge Washtenaw County and chose to preside over the Juvenile Division. During his two terms as presiding judge and juvenile judge, he significantly influenced the development of rehabilitative services to children and youth in the state as well as within Washtenaw County.

Distinguished Alumnus award recipient, Cruikshank, 68, is a 1937 graduate of Eastern. Eminent scholar, humanitarian, internationally recognized author and authority on learning disabilities, Cruikshank earned his master's degree at the University of Chicago and his doctorate at the University of Michigan.

For 21 years, Cruikshank served as the Margaret O. Slocum Distinguished Professor of Education and Psychology and Director of the Division of Special Education and Rehabilitation at Syracuse University.

Redick received her bachelor's degree in education from EMU in 1938 and her master's degree in counseling from the University of Michigan. She has worked as a visiting teacher and case worker for the Wayne County Juvenile Department and as a teacher and counselor in Detroit.

Redick was named "Teacher of the Year" for 10 years and "Woman of the Year," by the National Association of Business and Professional Women. Cited

Resume and job interview workshops offered

The Career Services Center will hold a workshop on resume preparation and interview techniques today from 2 to 4 p.m. in the Alumni Lounge of McKenny Union.

The workshop is intended to give students and job seekers tips on what an employer looks for, and will be conducted by professionals in the personnel management field.

Today's seminar will be run by Maggie Martin of the University of Michigan - Dearborn and Sandy Seals of Lewis College of Business.

The seminar is free to EMU students and alumni and $5 for the general public.

For reservations and more information call 7-0400.

Winter Released Time Appointments available

The Office of Research Development is accepting applications for its Winter 1984 Released Time Program until 5 p.m. on Monday, Oct. 3, 1983. One-quarter released time appointments will be awarded to faculty for the development of proposals for external funding. Call ORD at 7-3090 for further information.

Faculty Art Exhibition to open Oct. 3

The 1983 Faculty Art Exhibition will open Wednesday, Oct. 3 with a reception from 3 to 5 p.m. in Ford Gallery. Gallery hours are 8 a.m. to 5 p.m., Monday through Friday. Gallery attendance is free and open to the public.

Ypsilanti Adult Ed to open Micro-Computer Lab

Eastern, in cooperation with Ypsilanti Adult Education, is opening a new Micro-Computer Lab in the Instructional Support Center of the EMU Library, Room 102. The lab will be open during the following hours:

Mon.-Thurs.	8 a.m. to 12 p.m.
Fri.	8 a.m. to 11 p.m.
Sat.	9 a.m. to 11 p.m.
Sun.	1 p.m. to 12 p.m.

This is a non-tuition program in which EMU provides the computers and Ypsilanti Adult Education provides the staff and much of the software. The Adult Ed. staff includes seven certified teachers, four program assistants and two building coordinators.

The primary goal of the program is to introduce both faculty and students to hands-on experience with micro-computers.

An open house is scheduled for Sept. 28 and 29, between 11 a.m. and 6 p.m. Refreshments will be served. For more information call 482-6614, Ext. 360 or 7-1380.

New Courses and Program Information

In order for the Academic Services Center (ACS) to disseminate information about new courses and programs offered this winter semester, it is important for each department to provide the ACS with a description and other pertinent material of all approved new offerings. These materials should reach our office by Nov. 1, before the beginning of Winter registration, and can be sent to 229 Pierce Hall. Contact Ann Kettles, 7-3146, if there are any questions.

Automatic "W" begins Sept. 28

September 27 is the last day for students to reduce course load and still receive a 50 percent tuition credit. Instructors are requested to check their class list to confirm that their students are properly registered. Please send any students who are not on your list to Registration in Briggs Hall to clarify their status. The automatic withdrawal period begins Sept. 28, and a signature from the instructor is required to process all individual automatic withdrawal forms at Briggs Hall.

Ypsilanti Adult Education non-credit support courses

For funding purposes, it's important that students who have registered for an Ypsilanti Adult Education non-credit support course report to that class at least once this week, Sept. 26-30. Please emphasize the importance of attendance, so we may continue to offer these courses in future semesters.

Student Affairs Committee

The Student Affairs Committee of the Board of Regents on Thursday, Sept 15:

—Adopted a proposal made by Student Body President, Dave Taylor and Carol Plawsky, Arrival president, to take action in making EMU's campus more comfortable for Handicapped students.

Included in the proposal are: a campus-wide assessment of physical barriers needing correction; clarification of the role of ombudsperson for the handicapped; and the implementation of faculty and staff handicap awareness workshops.

—Heard Vice President for Student Affairs Laurence Smith present the division's 1983 annual report. Smith highlighted the division's strides in the area of affirmative action, its commitment to the growth and development of students and staff, and praised the division's department heads for helping to give "our students the biggest amount of return for their investment," as compared to other universities.

—Heard Sandy Clarke, director of the Career Services Center, present a comprehensive report of the center's newest efforts to improve career services and highlight new opportunities for students and alumni.

The Charles Stewart Mott Foundation has announced a $75,000 grant to Eastern as a contribution to a capital campaign for $1.1 million to renovate the University's Quirk Theater and increase its capacity.

The grant will help EMU qualify for a $150,000 challenge grant made for the high priority project by an anonymous donor. To qualify, the University must raise $300,000 by Dec. 31, 1984.

Quirk Theater, built in 1967, is the hub of a theater program involving more than 1,000 students learning to be performers, technicians, stage managers and scene designers. The program is among the largest in the national and rated as one of the strongest in Michigan.

The campaign, if successful, will permit Eastern to enclose an amphitheater as part of Quirk and thus create a 200-seat space that can be used year round which will double the number of performing opportunities now possible.

In addition, scenery and costume shops will be expanded. At the present time, sets have to be constructed on the main stage. With the scenery built elsewhere, the stage will be available for rehearsals and special performances that can be scheduled between productions.

Also, the entrance to the theater will be relocated to the north side of the building to make it more accessible to the handicapped.

The Mott Foundation is a private foundation with assets of more than $450 million that awards more than 360 grants a year for programs fostering community self improvement through education, citizen involvement, community leadership and development processes.

Eastern officially kicked off the Quirk Campaign Saturday, Sept. 17, with an old fashioned burlesque show.

EMU to sponsor small business seminar

A two-day seminar focusing on planning and control for the small business will be held Friday and Saturday, Oct. 14 and 15, from 8:30 a.m. to 4:30 p.m. at the Sheraton University Inn, Ann Arbor.

Sponsored by Eastern's Division of Continuing Education, the course is designed for the small business executive who has a limited background in financial planning as a tool for managing small business.

Participants will be instructed in the concepts of financial planning aimed to aid the understanding of different budgets such as sales, production, cash flow and other financial statements.

Dr. Ronald E. Hutchins, associate professor of finance here, and Dr. Mohsen Sharifi, certified management accountant and associate professor of accounting and finance, will conduct the workshop.

The cost of the workshop is $165 per person, which includes two luncheons, coffee and refreshment breaks as well as all materials.

For more information, call 7-0314.

Research

Ethics and Values in Science and Technology

This National Science Foundation program supports research and related activities through grants for collaborative research projects, individual professional development activities and dissertation support. The research should focus on science and technology advances that can be put to controversial social issues and investigate ethical and value considerations. Projects dealing with questions of biomedical ethics should focus on scientific advances, not service delivery.

Preliminary proposals are due Nov. 1, 1983.

White House Fellowships

These assignments provide an individual with the opportunity to observe and participate in the process of government public policy development. Each White House Fellow is assigned as a "special assistant" to a Cabinet secretary, the head of an independent agency of the Executive branch, a senior member of the President's staff or the Vice-President.

U.S. citizens are eligible to apply during the early and formative years of their career or professions. The assignment usually serves as a sabbatical or leave-of-absence from the individual's school or firm. Salary range is GS-15.

The application deadline is Dec. 1, 1983.

Analysis of Science Resources

This program supports the development of indicators of inputs, outputs and impacts of science and technology. Proposed research areas may include:

- Macroeconomic analysis of data on government research and development (R&D) activities with emphasis on quantitative indicators of impact of government R&D support on private R&D spending patterns.
- Analysis of data on precollege mathematics and science training and its influence on students' decisions to enter undergraduate science and engineering programs.
- Measurements of the quality of science including its rate of progress or advance.
- Analysis of international technology and trade flows with emphasis on new approaches to the analysis of existing data.

The deadline for submitting to this NSF program is Jan. 13, 1984.

For guidelines and information on any of the above programs, contact Richard Howard at 7-3090.

for her dedication to humanitarian activities relating to the youth in Los Angeles, Redick is currently a vocational counselor at Alain Leroy Locke High School in Los Angeles.

Alumni Honors Award recipient, Cameron, 45, received his bachelor's and master's degrees from Eastern in 1961 and 1962 respectively. Prior to assuming the post of NEA executive director, Cameron served as NEA's assistant executive director, responsible for coordinating the association's programs. His first association staff position was as executive director of the Birmingham Education Association in Michigan where he began his career as a teacher.

The recipient of many honors and awards, Cameron is a civil rights activist and an outspoken advocate for women's rights. He is on the board of directors of the National Foundation for the Improvement of Education as well as on the directing board of the Home and School Institute. As NEA's chief administrator, he has been instrumental in helping the NEA become a major political force.

Edmonds (1935-1983) earned his master's degree from EMU in 1967. A nationally recognized leader in education and civil rights, Edmonds is best remembered for his research demonstrating that schools have the potential to educate all students, regardless of their socio-economic status.

Prior to assuming a position at MSU, Edmonds served as a research associate for the Faculty of Education at Harvard University and was senior assistant to the chancellor for instruction, New York City Schools, where he led the nationally recognized New York City Public School Improvement Project. Also, Edmonds served as assistant superintendent for Michigan's Department of Public Instruction and as Human Relations Director for the Ann Arbor Public Schools.

Alumni Honors Awards are presented to EMU graduates of more than 10 years who exhibit an outstanding commitment to the University and show evidence that their college education has functioned in their lives.

Advance reservations for the Alumni Awards Banquet must be made by contacting the Alumni Relations Office at 7-0250. Tickets for the awards banquet, dance and champagne breakfast are $17.50 each. (Or, $15 for the banquet only; $10 for the dance and breakfast only.)

Campus Life secretary is 'where the action is'

In 1977, Gerry Burns wanted to better herself. She felt secure in her job with the EMU Parking Department, but wanted to prove to herself she could do more. So, she jumped at a chance to work in the Office of Campus Life. Since then, she has been Campus Life senior secretary and seems to be a lady in love with her job.

Burns first joined EMU in 1968. "In February of 1968, I started with the Student Employment Office (now called the Career Services Center). I made sure that Richard Nisbet, my supervisor, would allow for my family's long-planned vacation to the Canadian Rockies. Then, I got pregnant that summer," She worked for less than a year and didn't return to Eastern until 1977 when she went to work for the Parking Department.

"My job there was OK," she said. But, in response to the question about pleasant working environs, responded, "Well, who wants to pay a parking fine?"

Burns has had a different perspective since going to work for Campus Life. "In going from the Parking Department to Campus Life, I got to see the same students and staff members act totally different in two totally different atmospheres. It broadened my views," she said.

Burns describes the Campus

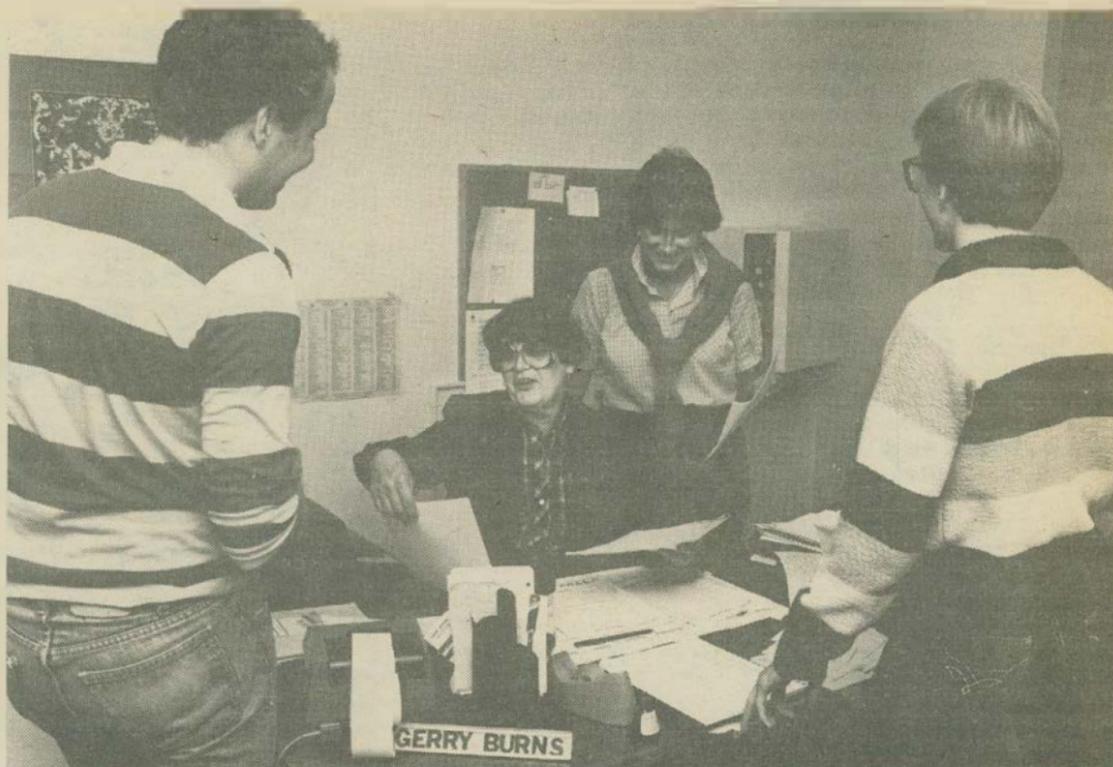

Life office as "a network, really, of all the extra-curricular activities (other than sports) on this campus." When asked about the negative aspects of her job, she searched to name the handling of bulk mail as the only part of her job she doesn't look forward to.

"This (the Office of Campus Life) is where the action is. There is absolutely no routine to this job. There are lots of times that I'll have three calls on hold and three people at that desk—but it never gets boring," Burns said.

Also, she gets to meet her share of interesting people. "People hit that desk—a lot of them claim to be actors or entertainers. One guy, looking for an EMU booking date, came in here in the dead of winter. He wouldn't leave his name or address and he didn't have a phone number. By the way he was dressed, I thought he was going mountain climbing," Burns said.

Best of all, Burns likes working with the students. "I'm proud of this office. Our students give of themselves. They almost always work here until they graduate. And then, maybe it's because I'm a mother, but I'll hear from them even years later," she said. "They'll send a Christmas card, or even drop in . . . I sure get to know a lot of nice people."

'Fat Bob' Taylor to sing at music fundraiser

The Music Department will feature "Fat Bob" Taylor, of radio fame as master of ceremonies of a scholarship benefit dinner Friday, Oct. 7 at 7 p.m. at EMU's Hoyt Conference Center. Billed as "A Musical Banquet," the program's proceeds will go to the Department of Music Development Fund.

The University Choir, directed by Emily Lowe; the Concert Winds, directed by Max Plank; and the Symphony Orchestra, directed by Russell Reed will each perform after the dinner.

Accompanied by the band and orchestra, Taylor will sing such favorites as "The Impossible Dream" and "Old Man River." Also performing will be the popular singers, The Ivy League Quartet, and a magic act called Odyssey in Illusion.

In discussing the inception of this, EMU's first music fundraiser, Dr. James B. Hause, head of EMU's Music Department cited the "increased cost of attending college, and the depressed economy of the past few years" which has "made it essential that more monies be made available to help worthy students in the field of music study."

Tickets for the event are available at EMU's Department of Music office at $25 per person. Advance reservations are required for the evening which begins with a cash bar at 6 p.m. For more information call 7-4380.

Baseball team honors outstanding players

Several members of Eastern's 1983 varsity baseball team were singled out for individual honors at the annual Fall Steak-Out held recently at the EMU Baseball Stadium.

Head Coach Ron Oestrike and Assistant Coach Roger Coryell announced the winners of four awards at the annual cookout.

Sophomore catcher Tom Siefert was named the winner of the Milo Danzeisen Award as 1983's "Most Valuable Player" while sophomore pitcher Ken Spratke won the Bill Crouch Award as the "Most Valuable Pitcher" and freshman Tim Deak was awarded the Chris Armelagos Award as "Most Improved Player." A new award, the Scholar-Athlete Award, was given to senior pitcher Jason Hansen.

Siefert, a 6-foot-1, 180-pound catcher, was third on the '83 Huron team in hitting with a .328 batting average and he added 18 RBI and recorded a .939 fielding percentage.

Spratke, a 6-foot-3, 200-pound right-handed pitcher, finished '83 with a 6-2 record and a 3.22 ERA in 67 innings pitched. He also notched 49 strike outs.

Deak, a 6-foot-3, 175-pound outfielder, was second on the team in batting with a .329 average, 20 RBI and 10 stolen bases.

Hansen, a 6-foot-2, 180-pound left-handed pitcher, was named to the Mid-American Conference All-Academic team after posting a 3.28 grade-point-average in accounting. Hansen has been a member of the dean's list here every semester.

In 1983, Hansen recorded a 4-2 record with a 4.66 ERA and for his entire career he posted 13 wins against 8 losses.
