Celeste Holm

Rose Lee Hayden

Holm, Hayden to be honored

Actress Celeste Holm will deliver the commencement address and receive an honorary Doctor of Arts degree at EMU's spring commencement Saturday, April 28, at 9:45 a.m. in Bowen Field House.

Holm is one of two honorary degree recipients who will be honored at the commencement ceremonies. The other is Dr. Rose Lee Hayden, executive director of the National Council on Foreign Language and International Studies. She will receive an honorary Doctor of Humanities degree from EMU.

Holm, 64, made her stage debut in the Pulitzer Prize-winning Theater Guild production of William Saroyan's "The Time of Your Life" in 1939. Her career was launched into stardom when she was cast in "Away We Go," the Rodgers and Hammerstein musical version of "Green Grow the Lilacs." The play, whose title was changed to "Oklahoma!" put the Holm interpretation of Ado Annie in the spotlight and her career began to blossom.

Hayden, 40, has served as executive director of the National Council on Foreign Language and International Studies since 1981. She earned her bachelor's degree from Cornell University, her master's degree from Columbia University and her doctorate from Michigan State University.

Prior to her appointment with the National Council, Hayden worked for the United States International Communication Agency and from 1978 to 1980, served as deputy director for Latin America and the Caribbean with the Peace Corps. In addition, she worked as associate director and director of the International Division of the American Council on Education for four years and worked in various capacities, including instructor and acting director of the Latin American Center, at Michigan State University.

Hayden is the author of numerous articles for journals and professional publications.

Brown named 'Social Worker of Year'

Kaaren Brown

Kaaren Brown, associate professor in EMU's Department of Social Work, recently was named "Social Worker of the Year" by the Huron Valley Unit of the Michigan Chapter of the National Association of Social Workers.

Brown, an Ann Arbor resident, was chosen "Social Worker of the Year" for her outstanding leadership in advancing the quality of human services in the community, which includes her professional dedication to undergraduate social work advancement and creative service to social work principles.

Brown earned her Bachelor of Arts degree in economics at the University of Wisconsin and her Master of Social Work degree at the University of Michigan.

She is currently a board member of Project Transition in Ann Arbor and serves as the Michigan NASW chapter liaison to Blue Cross Blue Shield of Michigan's Mental Health Advisory Board. Brown helped to establish and coordinate the Michigan Association of Baccalaureate Social Work Programs and is a frequent guest lecturer at colleges and for mental health training programs. A noted researcher, she was the 1981 recipient of an EMU research award and has received recognition for exemplary professional and educational performance as well.

Each year during March, which is National Professional Social Work Month, each of the 13 units of the Michigan Chapter of NASW recognize one outstanding member for his or her contributions to increasing public awareness and understanding of the profession. Brown is the 1984 recipient of this honor.

Ray Cryderman (right) presents President Porter with a check for $1,500 from UAW Local 1976. The donation is for the purchase of a seat in the proposed Sponberg Theater. UAW Local 1976 is the first union on campus to donate to the Quirk Theater Development Campaign.

CPR and First Aid Course To Be Offered

The University would like to offer a first aid and CPR course for employees in the fall. The course will be two credit hours paid through tuition waiver. Those interested in a one evening per week or two day per week lunchtime course should call 7-1036 or 7-0127.

Study Needs Middle-Aged Women

Healthy women aged 40 through 55 years are needed to participate in a psychological study at the Medical Center in Ann Arbor. Participants will receive $8 for a one hour session.

For more information, contact Nancy Genero at 763-1096 between 9:30 and 11:30 a.m.

Graduate Assistantships Available

Graduate assistantships are available for fall in the Educational Leadership program and the Guidance and Counseling program. The appointments are for two semesters.

For qualifications and more information, contact Barbara Stephens at 7-0255.

EMU Concert Winds and Symphonic Band To Perform at Pease Auditorium

The Concert Winds and Symphonic Band will perform in their final concert of the school year Wednesday, April 18, in Pease Auditorium at 8 p.m.

The Symphonic Band, under the direction of J. Whitney Prince, assistant professor of music, will perform William's "Rhosymedre," Liadov's "Five Russian Folk Songs," Cese's "The Little English Girl," and Teike's "Old Comrades."

Music Department professor Max Plank will lead the Concert Winds in a performance of Alfred Reed's Symphony for Brass and Percussion, Jacob's "Giles Farnaby Suite," Gillingham's "Chronicle" for winds and percussion, and Sousa's "The Stars and Stripes Forever."

Also at the concert, the 1984 Marching Hurons Drum Major will be announced.

The concert is free and open to the public.

Information Meeting Scheduled For EMU Tour Participants

An information and tour orientation meeting for those interested in participating in an upcoming EMU tour of China and Japan will be held Wednesday, April 18, at 7:30 p.m. in the Alumni Room of EMU's McKenny Union.

The 23-day, educational and sightseeing tour of China and Japan, scheduled for June 23 through July 15, is sponsored by the College's of Education and Technology.

The meeting will feature a slide presentation, an overview of Chinese and Japanese customs and an opportunity for informal discussion with persons from China and Japan.

For more information about the tour or the meeting, call the Office of International Studies at 7-2424.

May Faculty Workshop To Be Offered

The Faculty Center for Instructional Effectiveness (FCIE) has just completed the first of a series of faculty workshops on "Writing Skills: Applications to the Instructional Process." The first workshop focused on improving student writing. Fifteen faculty representing all five colleges participated. Because of the enthusiastic response to this effort, another is being planned for the spring semester. Any faculty member interested in participating in a May workshop is invited to attend the wrap-up session to be held on Tuesday, April 17 beginning at 3:30 p.m. in the Faculty Lounge of McKenny Union. For more information call Winifred Warnat at the National Center on Teaching and Learning, 7-1060.

Wittke plans 25th European trek

An American professor traveling in Russia has his wallet stolen. He has no money, no traveler's checks and no visa. For three hours he is interrogated by a stoical, unsmiling Russian officer in a dank, dirty Moscow precinct station. He wonders if he will ever get out of the country.

This is just one of the many adventures EMU history professor Dr. Reinhardt Wittke has survived in his 25 years with the European travel study program. Wittke never did get his wallet back, but he was able to replace his traveler's checks and his visa and continue to guide his group through Europe.

Wittke began his European travel study program in 1960. "I would never have believed in 1960 that I would still be doing this in 1984," he chuckled.

And he remembers that first trip as if it happened yesterday. "I was green then, of course I was I still green in '69, but I was really green in 1960," he said. That year, Wittke traveled by ship to Europe with 38 people for a 60-day jaunt through Europe, primarily by train. On the same trip, Wittke experienced a hair-raising border incident between Spain and France. "It was about midnight, I was coming back from a restaurant with two or three of my people and there sits all our luggage on the siding . . . and the train is ready to pull out. The border guard keeps saying 'voucher, voucher,' and of course I don't know what he's talking about. It's terrifying . . . my French stinks and I don't speak Spanish. I finally fished around in my pockets and found the vouchers that got our luggage across the border."

Fortunately, Wittke, who was born in Germany, speaks fluent German, "a saving factor," and has developed an amazing repertoire of ad libs. "You learn you can't avoid answering a question," he said. "You're speeding along in a bus and someone from the back says 'what's the name of that flower?' There's a thousand flowers out there. Or I hear, again from the back of the bus, 'how high is that mountain?' They write down whatever I say," he laughed.

Wittke has stories from nearly every trip. "Every year something happens, you never come out of it unscathed," he said. Through the years, he has played "father, mother, confessor and luggage carrier" to the 790 primarily graduate students and teachers who have traveled with him.

And his travelers come from throughout the country, from California, Texas and Pennsylvania and throughout the midwest. "This year I have two coming from Alaska. They are EMU grads teaching away out on some peninsula in Alaska. They can't even be reached by phone," Wittke said.

Each year, the program is different, and Wittke has had several repeaters. One teacher has made the trip 16 times and many have gone four, six and even eight times. "I guess I'm doing something right," Wittke joked, "they haven't shot me yet."

This year's trip will feature Yugoslavia, Italy, Switzerland and a special performance of The Passion Play at Unterarmargau. The program always includes a stay in Munich, Germany, and this year there will be special festivities planned to celebrate the 25th year.

For Wittke, going to Munich is much like going home. In 1953, he won a Fulbright Award to study at the University of Munich and in 1971, he was awarded a sabbatical leave to conduct research in the Institute of Zeitgeschichte in Munich. This expert in modern German studies, especially the Nazi era, also knows where to get the best strudel, the tastiest wurst and the smoothest Rhine wine. He also has been known to personally escort his charges back to their rooms after one-to-many Rhine wines.

Wittke has taught at EMU since 1956 after earning bachelor's, master's and doctoral degrees at the University of Michigan. In 1981, he was honored with the EMU Distinguished Faculty Award for 19th century European history and German history.

While many of Wittke's travel adventures have been trying, he finds solace in his cognac and Alka Seltzer, and in all the friends he has made. He still corresponds with many and sees them at trip reunions, weddings and funerals.

Admitting he is "too mean to retire," Wittke plans wholeheartedly to take a 30-year trip to Europe. Meanwhile he jokes about writing a book about his experiences, "The Academic Safari, or You Too Can Earn Six Credit Hours."

Late Withdrawal

Just a reminder that April 23 is the deadline for completing a late withdrawal from individual classes. Students will need to obtain all the required forms, faculty signatures, and supporting documentation, and approval from ASC. It is important that students present their material in-person to ASC since they are issued a written receipt as proof of having made a successful withdrawal. Contact ASC at 7-2170 if there are any questions.

Other Deadlines

In addition, April 23 also is the final day to complete a total withdrawal from the University and to remove the "Pass/Fail" option and receive a letter grade. These procedures are conducted at the Registration Office and no faculty signature is required.

Spring and Summer Faculty Interns

The following faculty members will be joining ASC during the spring and summer semesters as interns. For spring semester they are:

Igor Beginin, Art Department

Gary Evans, Communication and Theatre Arts Department, Honors Program
Mary Kreiger, Home Economics Department
For summer semester:
Henry Aldridge, Communication and Theatre Arts Department, Honors Program
William Cline, Foreign Language Department
James Reynolds, English Language and Literature Department

The ASC staff is pleased to have these faculty members join us for the coming semesters.

CORRECTION

The following three names were inadvertently left out of the "Regents Summary" story that appeared in the April 3 issue of Focus EMU. Dr. Monroe Friedman, professor of psychology; Dr. George Perkins, professor of English language and literature and Dr. Stephen Brewer, professor of chemistry, were recipients of research fellowship awards.

Continuation of this program allows us to increase and enhance our communication with the various academic department, thus strengthening academic advising services to all EMU students. If you have any questions concerning our intern program, please contact Ann Kettles at 7-3146.

Focus EMU is published weekly during the fall and winter semesters for faculty and staff at Eastern Michigan University. The deadline for copy is 5 p.m. Tuesdays for the next week's issue.

Openings

Several members of EMU's faculty and staff recently have participated in numerous professional activities.

Rosella M. Bannister, director of the Michigan Consumer Education Center at EMU, recently was named to the Ford Consumer Appeals Board for owners of Ford and Lincoln-Mercury vehicles registered in the lower peninsula of Michigan. The independent third-party board meets regularly to mediate customer service or product performance complaints that previously had been unresolved by the company or one of its franchised dealers.

Dr. Charles S. Saxon, assistant professor in the Department of Operations Research and Information Systems, has been invited to present a survey of information retrieval at the Society of Computers and Law's Warwick Conference, July 5-8, in England.

Saxon also will participate in the University of Houston's Law Center Conference on Legal Informatics to address law and technology issues and present papers to an open audience in August.

Robert P. Crouner, associate professor in Management department, has his case, "Flint Specialty Die, Inc.," chosen as the best of those submitted to the Case Research Association at a recent meeting in Atlanta, Ga. The Case Research Association is a nationally recognized forum for scholarly preparation and critique of instructional cases in business and the professions.

Dr. Paul A. Volz, professor of biology, was awarded the International Friendship Award for Winter 1984 at the International Friendship Reception held recently on the EMU campus.

The award is given to individuals demonstrating extraordinary, voluntary activity related to the promotion of friendship across cultural lines at EMU.

Dr. Young-Iob Chung, professor in the Department of Economics, and Lyla M. Spelbring, professor in the Department of Occupational Therapy, were co-authors of the article, "An Analysis of Weekly Instructional Input Hours and Student Work Hours in Occupational Therapy Fieldwork," which recently appeared in The American Journal of Occupational Therapy.

The article presented a detailed analysis of individual agency practices and the average of weekly instructional hours and student work hours attributed to the Level II fieldwork program during one 12-week assignment.

Dr. Mary Green, associate dean of the College of Education, recently served as a member of the National Conference Planning Committee of the American Association of Colleges for Teacher Education. The committee selected the theme, "The 21st Century: Agenda for Teacher Education" for the upcoming conference and outlined the anticipated program.

Leola R. Hogan, associate professor in the Department of Nursing Education, recently presented a paper titled "Leisure Activities of Twelve Elderly Blacks in a Hospital Setting: Implications for Change," at the Mid-American Congress on Aging in Des Moines, Iowa. Hogan's paper details the results of a survey used to examine psycho-social care of physically and mentally dependant elderly minorities.

Sharman Spieser, associate director of EMU's Project Upward Bound, recently participated in the University of Michigan's 1984 Women's Career Fair as a panelist in the workshop "Helping Professions and Social Changes."

Joan E. Laird, associate professor of social work, recently served as "master teacher" at the National Conference on Social Work Education held in Detroit.

Laird also presented a lead paper, which she wrote with Ann Hartman of the University of Michigan, titled "Family-Centered Social Work Practice," as part of a series on families, youth and children. In addition, she presented a paper titled "Meanings, Beliefs and Spirituality: and Important But Neglected Dimension in Social Work Education," and a paper titled "Exploring the Family-Group Interface."

Dr. O. Bertrand Ramsay, professor and head of the Chemistry Department, recently presented the paper "The Early Development of Conformational Analysis" at the Louisiana State University's 16th Mardi Gras Symposium in Organic Chemistry in Baton Rouge, La. Ramsay presented one of eight papers on the history of organic chemistry.

Eleanor S. Wright, associate professor of English language and literature, recently received Women in Communication Inc.'s "Faculty Advisor of the Year" award at its annual national meeting in Philadelphia, Pa. Her workbook on "Basic Journalism," copyrighted by the Detroit Free Press, was published last year.

In addition, Wright has been a volunteer teacher one day per week, since October 1983 in a journalism class at Robichaud High School in the Westwood School District and was named to Women in Communication Inc.'s National Career Development Task Force.

Clare Beck, associate professor in the Center of Educational Resources, recently appeared on WAAM radio to discuss 1980 Census data for Washtenaw County. Her article "Washtenaw is the most . . ." appeared in the Washtenaw Area Data News as well.

Dr. Irene Ametrano, assistant professor; Dr. Paul Nau, professor; and Dr. John Pappas, professor, all in the Department of Leadership and Counseling, recently participated in a pre-convention workshop titled "Counselor and the Computer," at the Michigan Personnel and Guidance Association Annual Conference in Grand Rapids.

Research

Minority Children Reunification RFP

The Department of Health and Human Services has issued a Request For Proposal to generate information for advancing and improving reunification services to minority children in foster care and their families. A system dynamic model will be constructed for the evaluation and improvement of the reunification of minorities in eight agencies.

Proposals are due May 14, 1984. Contact Cheryl Kozell at 7-3090 for program information.

Grant Programs for the Arts

The National Endowment for the Arts is accepting applications for the following programs during the remainder of FY '84: Media Arts Centers (May 2); Design Communications (May 15); Design Demonstrations (May 15); Opera-Musical Theatre (May 23); Music Presenters and Festivals (May 31); Jazz Special Projects (May 31); Art in Public Places (June 1); Visual Arts Organizations (June 15); Media Arts: Radio (July 20); Media Arts: Film/Video Productions (Sept. 14); Design Fellowships (Sept. 20); Design Exploration (Sept. 20); Music Professional Training (Sept. 30); and Visual Artists Forum (Nov. 1).

For further information and application materials, contact Cheryl Kozell at 7-3090.

Low-Wage Labor Market Studies

The U.S. Department of Health and Human Services is seeking applications for projects to develop and conduct a program of research and analysis relating to the promotion of economic self-sufficiency among the transfer income population. Aspects of labor markets that might be analyzed include the growth of employment opportunities in some sectors of the economy or for some demographic groups. Emphasis should be on why job opportunities exist in different labor markets for the particular demographic groups at risk of poverty.

Submission deadline for proposals is May 18, 1984. Contact R. Howard at 7-3090 for further information.

Faculty Council Corner

Even if you are not a member of Faculty Council, you can still be involved. You will soon find in your mailbox a form on which you may indicate your interest in serving on one of the six standing committees: Academic Policies, Student Policies, Institutional Policies, Honorary Degrees, Procedures and Elections, and Athletic Policies. When Committee Chairs are elected in the fall, they use responses on these forms to form their committees.

Faculty Council also makes appointments to more than twenty other committees on campus, such as Research and Sabbatical Leave, search committees, and the Judicial Board. If you are interested in learning about and being considered for appointment to these positions, indicate your interest on the current form and you will receive further information early in the fall.
