'83 a good year for Eastern

Never a year goes by at EMU without some excitement, some disappointments and some controversy. 1983 was no exception. Amid the steady rhythmic flow of academic stimulation and pursuit, some events captured out attention in a special way. Just as a holiday fireworks display, they lit up our skies with a burst of emotion. And just as quickly as they were experienced or enjoyed, they were committed to memory. . . brief moments in the passage of time whose impacts continue to be felt and remembered.

Among the top stories of 1983 was Carol Channing's visit to EMU April 22 to kick off the $1.1 million Quirk Theater Development Campaign. Channing met with faculty, students and friends of the University and was appointed honorary professor of communication and theater arts.

Two other entertainers put EMU in the news as well. In June, Barry Manilow established an endowed scholarship in his name in the Department of Music, to be awarded annually to a student who shows outstanding abilities in performance. And, Pearl Bailey told us "What's Right With Education!" as part of the College of Education's Homecoming conference for educators Oct. 14.

In August, the Quirk Theater Development Campaign got another boost. The Kresge Foundation awarded a $250,000 challenge grant to the University in support of its capital campaign to renovate and expand the theater. The contribution also marked the largest single gift ever received by the University.

EMU sports had its highs and lows. Most notable were the achievements of the men's swimming team members. They took the Mid-American Conference title for the fourth consecutive year. The most disappointing sports news was the indictment of six EMU football players accused of athletic equipment thefts.

Academically, it was a banner year for the University. The Board of Regents approved the establishment of the Technology Services Center in February. The center, which is designed to help EMU's College of Technology provide research, training and professional development sessions at industries throughout southeastern Michigan, has already provided numerous services for Ford Motor Co. and other area businesses.

In addition to the four new degree programs approved by the regents, a University-wide honors program also was approved. Designed to recruit, retain and recognize gifted students, the program will begin offering honors courses this semester.

Probably the most controversial story of 1983 came from issues surrounding the operations of University Computing and the resulting Arthur Young and Co. report. Still operating under interim executive director Dr. Pedro Sanchez, in conjunction with Dr. Morrell Boone of EMU and George Bennington, of Arthur Young and Co., the computing center appears to be on the road to recovery.

Finally, some of the best news for the EMU community came Sept. 16, the official opening enrollment reporting date. Fall enrollment increased 4.5 percent compared to enrollment figures one year ago, the highest increase in enrollment of the state's largest universities.

One would be hard pressed not to say, all in all 1983 was a very good year.

Carol Channing's visit to EMU was one of the highlights of 1983. Channing helped kick off the $1.1 million Quirk Theater Development Campaign.

Shirley Houseman

Houseman to accept Texas position

Shirley A. Houseman, director of the Academic Services Center, has resigned her EMU post and has accepted a position as director of Academic Advising at the University of Houston.

Houseman came to EMU in 1967 as a part-time lecturer in history and was appointed academic adviser in 1968. She was named assistant director of Academic Advising in 1971 and was appointed director of the Academic Services Center in 1975.

According to Houseman, the move to Texas is a positive one. "It's a very good career move for me," she said. "I'll be developing a program of advising there, since they really don't have one, and I'll be using the skills I've developed here."

Leaving Eastern and Michigan won't be an easy transition for her though. "I've been here longer than anywhere else. . . This has been my home, so leaving will be very difficult in some ways. I feel something like a mother. I've developed what we have here at EMU and it's very sad to leave it behind," she said.

"My experience at Eastern has been a very positive one," Houseman added. "However, the University of Houston offers me an opportunity for career advancement which is something I don't have here."

Houseman's resignation is effective in April, 1984.

Campus Capsules

Campus Life

Presents Winter Carnival

Campus Life, in conjunction with other campus organizations, will present the second annual Winter Carnival Monday, Jan. 16, through Saturday, Jan. 21.

The carnival is an annual "welcome back" week of scheduled entertainment and events for students, faculty and staff. This year's theme (reminiscent of Homecoming) is "There's Snow Place Like Home," with activities not only focusing on winter fun but on not-too-distant summer days as well.

Some of the week's events will be the Winter Laff-Olympics, the EMU "Stars of Tomorrow" talent search, a casino night, Eastern's longest submarine, a winter beach party, a Hawaiian party at Hoyt Conference Center and EMU's own versions of "Family Feud" and "The Dating Game."

For more information, contact Russ Molinar or Bill Barnett at 7-3045.

Ford Gallery Hosts Invitational Sculpture Exhibition

Ford Gallery will host an invitational sculpture exhibition through Friday, Feb. 3.

The exhibit will feature the works of David Barr, Joe DeAngelis, Michael Hall, Al Hebert, Grace Manias, Jim Pallas, Jon Rush and Alden Smith.

Admission to the exhibit is free and open to the public.

Regular gallery hours are 8 a.m. to 5 p.m. Monday through Friday.

For more information, call Eastern's Art Department at 7-1268.

Federal Income Tax Instruction Tapes Available

Taxpayers who plan to prepare their own federal income tax returns this year may get some help from cassette tapes available at the Ypsilanti District Library.

The tapes, provided by the Internal Revenue Service, give detailed instructions for filling out the most commonly used forms. Tape 1 tells who must file and gives instructions for completing Form 1040, Schedules A, B and W, plus special rules for the military. Tape 2 tells how to prepare Forms 1040EZ, 1040A and 1040 A Schedule 1, and it provides valuable tax tips.

The tapes are checked out in the Audiovisual Room downstairs in the library.

January Bookrush Hours

The University Bookstore will have the following extended hours for Winter bookrush:

Monday - Thursday	Jan. 9-12	8 a.m. to 8 p.m.
Friday	Jan. 13	8 a.m. to 5 p.m.
Saturday	Jan. 14	12 p.m. to 4 p.m.
Monday - Thursday	Jan. 16-19	8 a.m. to 8 p.m.
Friday	Jan. 20	8 a.m. to 5 p.m.
Saturday	Jan. 21	CLOSED

Wilson to Speak at Minority Women's Conference

"Achieving Against the Odds," a conference for minority women in higher education, is scheduled for Friday, Feb. 17 at Oakland University.

Dr. Roselle Wilson, director of Minority Affairs at EMU, will be a workshop presenter at the conference.

Advance registration at $25 is required by Feb. 10. For more information, please contact Pat Nowaczynski, conference co-chair, at 377-3360.

University Publications Now stocks EMU Place Cards

University Publications, located in the lower level of Dining Commons I, has a supply of Eastern place cards to be used for luncheons, dinners and meetings. They may be ordered for departmental use by a standard requisition or for personal use by cash or check. Call 7-0366 for more information.

Focus on Staff

Tammany enjoys switch to union relations

After 18 years "in the trenches" as a faculty member, David Tammany now dons a 3-piece suit and tie for his new position as director of staff and union relations at Eastern.

"I thought maybe it would be a nice change," Tammany said, "as long as I didn't have to give up everything on the other end." And he didn't. He continues to teach graduate classes in painting and retains tenure rights in the Art Department, where he began teaching in 1966.

Tammany has a lot of faculty labor experience under his belt, which is why he feels he looked attractive for the staff and union relations job. "I have a very good understanding of academics," he said.

"Sometimes you see things that a person not familiar with academics might not understand."

In 1978, Tammany served on the AAUP negotiating team and in less than a year, was asked to take over the position of the grievance officer. In 1982, he was chief negotiator for the AAUP contract. "That's sort of how I got from there to here," he added.

Tammany's faculty labor experience also includes a stint at the Center for the Study of Collective Bargaining in Higher Education, offered through Baruch College in New York, and seminars at the George Meany Institute.

In addition to working daily with the faculty contract, Tammany also handles staff relations, but hopes, in the near future, for help in that area. "Right now, all I can do is write a memo, throw it in my out basket, then run around the desk, pick it up and do whatever the memo says," he laughed.

"It's a lot of work," he added, "and with contracts (he handles six different ones) you always have timelines to deal with, so you become quite a juggler."

Tammany feels he spends most of his time trying to stop situations before they become a grievance. "I also spend a lot of time advising deans and department heads about how to administer the various contracts," Tammany said.

Also, Tammany handles any discrimination or sexual harassment charges that staff or students may make and works on special projects, including the staff training and development program recently approved by the Board of Regents.

The training program has a budget and currently the administration is in the process of hiring a director of training, an associate director and a secretary, according to Tammany. "The type of training offered will be some self-improvement programs and some programs for advancement. Of course, the specifics will be up to the experts," he added.

"There will be advantages to me once the program is set up, especially in dealing with staff members who feel locked into a position with nowhere to go. Training programs tend to pay off in increased productivity and better morale," Tammany said.

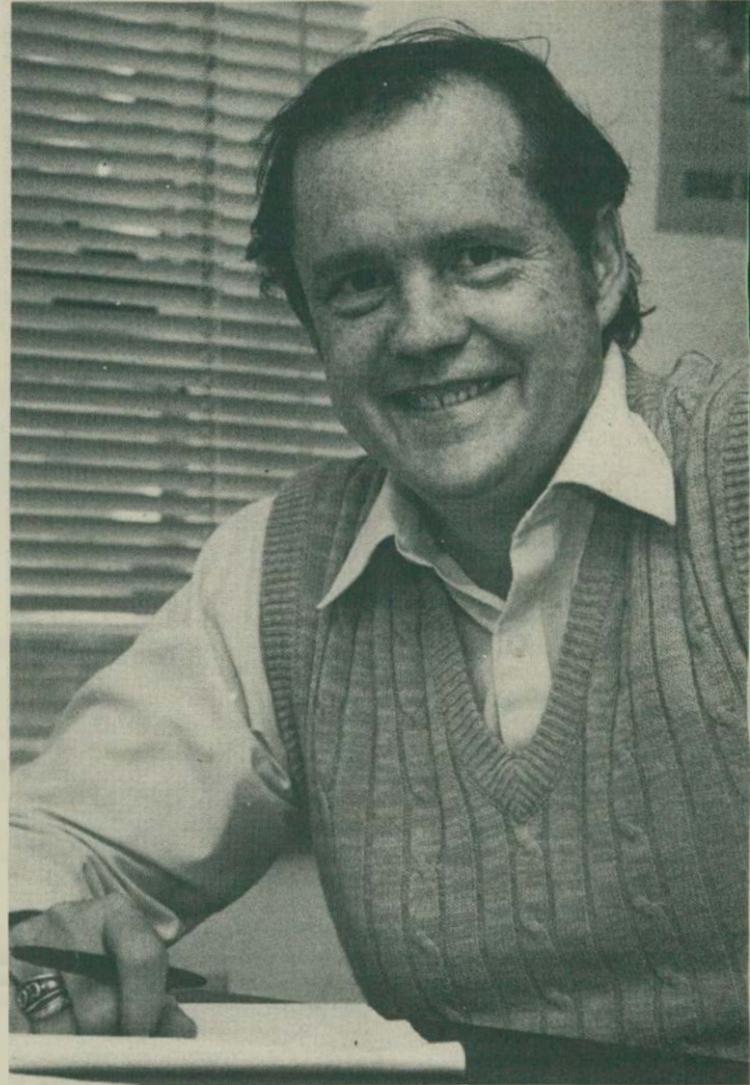

Tammany expects his next major involvement will be with the compensation study the University is planning and with the fringe benefits area. "I'm going to have to do a lot of catch up there (with fringe benefits). I think we can save tremendous amounts of money and at the same time provide much greater benefits to the employee groups," he said.

The thing Tammany enjoys most about his job is what he tries the most to avoid—arbitration. "I like the research and the preparation," he said, "but it's my job to avoid arbitration and settle disputes before they get that far."

Tammany admits the transition from faculty negotiator to union relations director was a big change. "The most difficult transition is having to say no. When I was working for labor, I could scream and yell about what we had to have, but I never had to say no," he added.

"Probably my biggest adjustment was wearing a tie five days a week," he joked, "but if its part of the uniform, one wears it."

WEMU presents Winter Jazz Series

WEMU, in cooperation with Ypsilanti's Depot Town Association, will present the third annual Winter Jazz Series which began Saturday, Dec. 3.

All the series concerts will take place in the historic Farmer's Market Building in Ypsilanti's Depot Town, with plenty of space for dancing, eating and drinking. All sets begin at 8 p.m.

Continuing the jazz series on Saturday, Jan. 14 will be the Katalenic/Kwek Band, an 18 piece orchestra that concentrates its high energies on the compositions of co-leader John Katalenic.

On Saturday, Feb. 11, a twin bill comes to Depot Town with the Charles Boles Quintet and The Sun Messengers. Boles, an expressive pianist, is a veteran of Detroit's 1950 bebop scene. His band will kick off the evening at 8 p.m. The Sun Messengers, who will perform at 10 and 11 p.m., specialize in Latin dance music.

The Trinidad/Tripoli Steel Band will close the Winter Jazz Series on Saturday, March 10. They appeared at last year's Jazz Festival, and their warm, colorful, tropical sound delighted last year's sell-out audience.

Series tickets are $20 and are available at WEMU, 426 King Hall. Individual tickets, priced at $6.50, may be purchased at the door. For more information, call WEMU at 7-2229.

Policy revision

The University Board of Regents approved a new policy regarding enrollment reporting at its Nov. 30 meeting.

According to the policy, the president, on behalf of the Board of Regents, will issue an annual letter of compliance with the enrollment reporting requirements to the state budget director.

Also, the internal auditor shall audit the enrollment reporting procedures used by the administration in preparing enrollment reports and provide the president and the Board of Regents with an opinion on compliance with the reporting requirements.

The official record dates for enrollment reporting shall be determined to be equivalent to one-tenth the number of total class days during the semester as set by the University calendar after (and including) the first day of class. Annually, the administration shall submit to the Board of Regents for approval notice of the official reporting dates. Specification of the official record date shall be included in the academic records.

Official record dates for 1983 were (summer) June 30, and (fall) Sept. 15. The official dates for the remainder of the 1983-84 fiscal year are (winter) Jan. 17, and (spring) May 7.

Phone system overhauled

During the holiday break, the long distance system was overhauled and several improvements were made. The problems commonly experienced during the first semester, for the most part, have been eliminated, according to Jim Vick, acting assistant director of Purchasing. The following changes in dialing instruction have been made:

Long Distance to 313 Area

142 + Telephone Number + Authorization Code
It is no longer necessary to dial the 313.

Collect and Credit Card

141 + 0 + Area Code (except 313) + Telephone Number
After dialing 141, you will get a dial tone almost immediately. Dial 0, the area code (except 313) and the number. You will then hear a tone signaling you to enter your Michigan Bell credit card number. If you have a touch tone telephone, enter the Bell credit card number, if you have a rotary dial, wait for the operator to answer.

Long Distance Information

141 + 0 + Area Code + 555-1212
Dial 141, wait momentarily for dial tone, then enter 0, area code and 555-1212.

Overseas Calls

These can only be made by using a Michigan Bell credit card issued to your department and available through Pat Hancock in the Service Operations office, 7-1299. Dial 141, wait momentarily for dial tone, then dial 0. A Bell operator will answer.

Social Environments Influencing Health and Effective Functioning in Middle and Later Years

The National Institute on Aging is seeking grant applications for research projects designed to identify specific modifications of the social environment — at work, in the household, or in the community — that may improve the health or the effectiveness of middle-aged and older persons. Studies are sought which extend scientific understanding of how and why particular interventions or variations in the social context may have positive or negative consequences for particular outcomes of the aging process.

Receipt dates for proposals are March 1, July 1, and Nov. 1. Contact R. Howard at 7-3090 for assistance.

The deadline for applying to direct a seminar is April 1, 1984. Contact Cheryl Kozell for guidelines and application forms.

Registration News

Late Registration will run through Jan. 13. All students must pay the required fees, at least 50 percent of tuition, plus $10 for late registration. Those students making program adjustment will be charged $10 per transaction and must have 50 percent of tuition for any added credit hours. Beginning Jan. 16, all adds must be accompanied by written permission from both instructor and department head.

Refund Deadlines

January 17 is the last day to receive a 100 percent refund for all credits dropped. The 50 percent refund deadline is January 27.

Drop vs. Withdrawal

There appears to be some confusion among both faculty and students when the term "dropping" a class is used as opposed to "withdrawing" from class. The meaning of these terms used at EMU states that a student drops a course when it is done during the first three weeks of a major semester (fall and winter) and when a portion or all of the tuition from the dropped course is refunded. No record of the course will appear on the student's transcript. On the other hand, a withdrawal is initiated beginning the fourth week of a major semester. Only a completed withdrawal form is needed. After the 10th week, the "late" withdrawal period begins, and withdrawals are processed only for those students who have a grade of C — or better in the course or for those students who provide the Academic Services Center documented verification of an extenuating circumstance to justify granting a withdrawal. All withdrawals appear on the student's transcript as a "W".

Graduate Fee Due

Students expecting to graduate at the conclusion of winter semester must complete the application for graduation and pay the required graduation fee no later than the second week of classes. The fee is $20 for undergraduate and $25 for graduate students. Forms and payments must be returned to the Cashier's Office, Briggs Hall.

Focus EMU is published weekly during the fall and winter semesters for faculty and staff at Eastern Michigan University. The deadline for copy is 5 p.m. Tuesdays for the next week's issue.

Directors of Summer Seminars

The National Endowment for the Humanities is accepting applications for teachers and scholars who might wish to design and direct Summer Seminars for Secondary School Teachers. The seminars are offered by NEH in order to provide teachers of grades 7 through 12 an opportunity for intense advanced study in "the significant texts of civilization." For four, five or six weeks, those selected to participate in the program will work under the direction of a distinguished teacher and active scholar, studying seminal works in the humanities in a systematic and thorough way.

Sports

The 1983-84 edition of the EMU women's gymnastics team will feature five returning letter-winners and four incoming freshmen.

Second-year coach Steve Wilce will look for leadership from junior Audrey Novak who is the team's best all-around competitor. Novak will be joined by Holly Fitch who was named "Most Improved" and "Most Dedicated" for the Hurons during the 1982-83 campaign.

The Hurons also will depend on the services of three returning sophomores. Anne Chadwick, Theresa Deigert and Tamara Olkowski will be important elements if the Hurons are to improve on their third place finish (in the MAC) of a year ago.

Adding depth to the Huron lineup for the 1983-84 season will be four freshmen. They include LeAnn Albeck, Monique Laursen, Sharon McNie and Lynda Lee Wright.

Albeck was a four-year gymnastic letterwinner at Adrian High School. She was also an outstanding hurdler and sprinter for the Maples and was named a high school All-American.

McNie was voted Kimball High School's "Outstanding Female Athlete" for 1982-83 and received an even higher honor by being selected to the Kimball High School Hall of Fame. She was a four-year letterwinner in gymnastics and ran track for one year.

Lynda Lee Wright won nine letters while a prep at Adrian High School. She started and lettered four years in gymnastics. She was named "Most Valuable Player" in 1981, '82 and '83.

The Hurons have an attractive but tough schedule for the 1983-84 season. EMU will face six different Mid-American Conference foes and will challenge four Big Ten opponents including Indiana, Wisconsin, Michigan and Michigan State. Outside the MAC and Big Ten, the Hurons will tumble against Clarion State, S.E. Missouri State and Kentucky.

Guest lectures on cancer to be offered

Dr. Michael Brennan, president of the Michigan Cancer Foundation, will present an overall view of cancer problems in Michigan and the United States Tuesday, Jan. 10, at 1 p.m. in room 332 of the Mark Jefferson Science Building.

Brennan's lecture is the first of a series of guest lectures on cancer and cancer treatment to be presented at EMU as part of a new course in oncology.

Although prerequisites for those enrolled in the course are college classes in microbiology and organic chemistry, the guest lectures are free and open to the public.

In addition to Brennan's lecture, other speakers will include:

—Dr. Gloria Heppner, director of research for the Michigan Cancer Foundation, who will discuss cancer research: what's in progress, hypotheses and approaches, successes and accomplishments thus far. Heppner will lecture, Tuesday, Jan. 17 and Thursday, Jan. 19.

—Dr. Ronald Natale, physician and lung cancer specialist at University Hospital in Ann Arbor, who will discuss lung cancer chemotherapy Thursday, Feb. 23 and Tuesday, Feb. 28 —and Dr. Beatrice Amendola, chief of irradiation therapy at University Hospital in Ann Arbor, who will speak on irradiation therapy of cancer Tuesday, March 20.

In addition to those listed above, four research scientists from Ann Arbor area institutions will lecture on: fermentation techniques Jan. 26 and Jan. 31; screening anti-cancer drugs March 13; chemical carcinogenesis March 15; and cell systems and animal systems used in ascertaining effects March 22.

All lectures will begin at 1 p.m. in room 332 Mark Jefferson.

For more information call Dr. Stephen Liu, professor of biology, 7-1110.

Long distance update

Calls to Canada

Effective January 16, 1984, these calls will be dialed exactly like any long distance call — 142 + Area Code + Telephone Number + Authorization Code.

Telephone Repair

Problems with telephone line or dial tone: Call Michigan Bell 142 + 221-3131 + Authorization Code (You will not be billed) Problems with equipment (lights, locals, buzzers, telephone instrument): Call AT&T 9 + 1 + 800-526-2000.

Problems with long distance: Call Service Operations Office 7-1299.

If you are uncertain who to report the problem to: Call 7-1299.

Billing Problems

Call the Accounting Office 7-0082.

Billable Calls

IMPORTANT - As with any long distance service provided by other common carriers like MCI and Sprint, calls are recorded from the time the telephone begins to ring. A time delay is programmed in so that calls under 40 seconds are not billed. This means that you will be billed by InfoNet for calls not completed if you let the telephone ring more than seven times.

Steel Dials

If you have any rotary dial telephones in your office that have a steel dial as opposed to a plastic dial, please notify Service Operations at 7-1299. The feasibility of replacing those instruments is being considered.

Transmission Quality

During the holiday break all of the system problems with low volume, crackling and screeching were eliminated. You will, however make an occasional call with poor transmission quality. This is inevitable in any system. If poor transmission occurs on all long distance calls, at this point, it is likely a problem with your instrument. Please call 7-1299 to report any transmission problems. Problems with incoming and local calls are not due to the InfoNet system.

Telephone User Seminars

Telephone user seminars are again being offered. At the seminars, the new changes in service will be explained in detail, a speaker phone will be installed for on-hand demonstrations and InfoNet representatives will be available to answer questions. Each seminar will last less than one hour and will be offered at seven different times on Friday, Jan. 13 in the McKenny Ballroom. Times are: 8:30 a.m., 9:30 a.m.; 10:30 a.m., 11:30 a.m., 1:30 p.m., 2:30 p.m. and 3:30 p.m. Please call 7-1299 to reserve a place.

Art Department sponsors lectures

The second half of the Art Department's 1983-84 lecture series will begin Thursday, Jan. 19, when Hope Palmer speaks on "Women in Art: Critical Stereotypes."

Palmer will present four lectures focusing on women in art over the course of the winter semester. Her lectures are presented through the cooperation of the statewide services of the Detroit Institute of Arts and are made possible through funds from the State of Michigan.

Palmer is assistant professor of humanities at Wayne State University. She received her master's degree in art history from the University of Michigan. Palmer also is a professor of painting and drawing at Henry Ford Community College and an art historian at the Birmingham-Bloomfield Art Association.
