The S. Schaad, 1921, writes, "I am teaching a country school of 26 pupils and am certainly enjoying myself." Mr. Schaad was one of our junior assistants during the two years of his college course.

Among the bird books recently added to the shelves are one of the most interesting and useful is "Portraits and Habits of Our Birds," edited by T. G. Pearson which contains the first fifty educational leaves of the Audubon Society with rarely accurate colored illustrations by leading bird artists. We have not seen a bird calendar as yet, but we have heard the song sparrows singing down by the river bank.

OUR OWN BOOK LIST

Two bulletins, Nos. 6 and 7 of the American Geographical Society Research Series have been received by the Library. These bear the titles "Recent Colonization in Chile" and "The Rainfall of Chile," and were written by Professor Mark Jefferson. They are the result of his work on the recent expedition to A. B. C. Countries in 1918 to study conditions of colonization.

"Recent Colonization in Chile" is an enlightening and interesting bit of information and to the teacher of geography a store knowledge that cannot be found in many books on this South American country. To begin with, Professor Jefferson introduces the subject by reviewing the social conditions in Chile, describing the population of that country and emphasizing the feudalism of the Creole society. This at once gives insight into the motives that have induced the Chilean government to use propaganda in attempting to attract highly skilled European labor to settle in Chile. The upper class of the country, the Creole population, seem to feel that it can thus be provided with articles, ordinarily imported from European countries, at low expense.

Among other notions acquired through general reading, which this book dispels are those which have to do with the German element as a factor in Chile. Professor Jefferson points out that the stories about German settlements and towns in which German is the spoken language and in which the papers are all printed in German, are almost a complete myth.

Another fact which is clearly brought out in the class control in Chile. Just because the government of Chile and other South American countries may resemble our own in form is no conclusive evidence that we are alike in spirit.

"The Rainfall of Chile" is designed especially to correct a general misunderstanding. To quote the introductory paragraph—"As Chile is an agricultural country, its life is intimately bound up with the supply of rain; yet the distribution of this rainfall throughout Chile is quite exceptional. To attempt to give maps except as regards the general dryness of the north and the wetness of the south." To this end observations were made and data collected in concise form. This material is available for persons who can use it in representing Chile in its true light.

Bulletin of a like nature are--

Professor Jefferson. To be chosen by the American Geographical Society to head such an expedition is one thing, to have been a member of the Board of Geographical Reports to acquire President Wilson and the Secretary of State at the Ver-o-Milhe Fronde Conference is another, that rarely come to men who are as unassuming in manner as our own Professor Jefferson.
