Regular Hall inadequate to Accommodate Increasing Numbers

The JUNIOR LECTURES, Organization for The Year, General Announcements, Etc.

The fact was demonstrated that the Normal Hall is quite inadequate to accommodate the number of students present. The organization for the year included the attendance of several more students than was anticipated, and a second assembly room was needed.

The exercises of a general character, as usual, consisted of music and a short address by President Jones. The problem, as put by President Jones, was that the Normal Hall was quite inadequate to accommodate the number of students present. The organization for the year included the attendance of several more students than was anticipated, and a second assembly room was needed.

THE SCHOOL PLAYGROUNDS

Never in the history of public schools have the playgrounds had such an impetus as during the present season. Thousands of school yards which, formerly unoccupied, have been filled with joyous children, in the spirit of the very nature of their existence—healthful play. The organized playground has exerted a wonderful influence in every community where it has been introduced. It is primarily a safety valve for the health of children. Free, natural, vigorous exercise is essential to the growth and development of the body. No such exercise can be attained from the best systems of gymnastics as untamed, untrammeled, the most important. Education, the training of all the faculties, a command of the family powers, and a knowledge of the world rural and urban. Moreover, play is a necessary outlet for superabundance of animal spirits. It creates the proper atmosphere about children and gives them mature, childlike dispositions. It makes them happy, and a happy childhood is the precursor of a useful manhood and well-rounded life.

The marriage of Miss Helen Adams, of Caseville, has returned to resume her work at College. Miss Adams was here two years ago. Bertha O'Dell and Mildred Arnold, both two years ago, are not teaching but are spending the year at their homes in Three Rivers.

CONSOLIDATION OF RURAL SCHOOLS

The following advantages have been specified by school officials in those districts who have given the plan a trial:

1. The conditions of education have been markedly improved by consolidation. The comfort and convenience of the pupils, physical and emotional, are greatly increased by bringing them together in a school building. The arrangements of the district school by a central administration.

2. Ventilation, the sufficiency and convenience of lighting, the convenience of the seats and desks, are all improved.

3. The substitution of a few well-equipped central schools for a large number of poorly-equipped district schools more than offsets the concentrating of it all, along with grading, which grows greater efficiency of teaching at low expense.

4. It makes easy the supervision of teachers and systems.

5. Promotes increased efficiency.

6. Adds materially to the economy of administration.

7. Specialization in teaching is possible.

8. The scope of education for the children is greatly widened.

9. Promotes increased ability.

10. Serves to the economy of administration.

11. The Kansas state board of education, in its report last month in connection with the reception of the National Education Association, offers these prizes of $75 to $25 for the best three essays.

The following advantages of the city school, as against the district school, are brought out in the report of the state board of education:

1. The Kansas state board of health has insisted on the use of water founts in all the schools of the United States, and the common drinking cup, which recent experience has shown to be the best means of promotion of public health, has been substituted for the drinkmg cup.

2. The Kansas state board of health has made it a large and pleasing one, which must be seen to be appreciated.

3. Smartest Creations of the Season

4. Handsome Street Boots of caftskin in heavy tan or black, with the new high top and broad extension sole, wing tips and slant tops—very attractive.

5. Patent Leather in both button and lace for dress occasions will be in great vogue. Also shoes for general wear in the ever popular gun metal and kid leathers with liure finish and patent tips are awaiting your inspection.
