ICE CREAM SOCIAL/FAREWELL TO KIM SCHATZEL: Please join the EMU community for some of your favorite ice cream treats to say farewell to Interim President and Provost Kim Schatzel, and allow her an opportunity to thank you and the entire university community for the support and friendship you have provided her. The ice cream social will take place on Thursday, Jan. 7, from 3:30 - 5 p.m., in room 310 in the Student Center. A brief program will take place at approximately 4:15 p.m. Treats will include an ice cream sundae bar and ice cream floats. There is no cost and the event is open to everyone.

NEW EASTERN EXPERTS WEBSITE: The Division of Communications has established a new, robust Eastern Experts website. The EMU Experts Directory will highlight the wide variety of expertise and insight on our faculty, with the goals of enabling journalists to quickly secure experts to comment in stories and interviews and of helping community organizations find speakers for their events. If you are an EMU faculty or staff member with an area of expertise that might be of interest to the media or an area organization, we hope that you will consider becoming a part of the Eastern Experts Directory. The process is simple. Simply log on to the Eastern Experts Directory. There you will find easy tips on how to join the directory, along with tips on writing your bio and completing the expert form. First, click "Join the Directory" and read the text there. After reading the text there, click "Complete the EMU expert form" and then log in using your my.emich credentials.

ADOBE ACROBAT PRO AVAILABLE FOR UNIVERSITY-OWNED COMPUTERS: A new software agreement between EMU Information Technology and Adobe allows for the installation of Adobe Acrobat Pro on all university-owned computers. Acrobat Pro extends the function of Adobe Reader by allowing you to create and edit PDF documents. To request installation, contact the I.T. Help Desk at 487-2120.

HISTORY AND PHILOSOPHY GUEST SPEAKER: Takashi Yoshida will speak about the "Nanjing Massacre in American, Chinese and Japanese History and Memory," on Thursday, Jan. 14, from 5 – 6:30 p.m. in the Halle Library Auditorium. Yoshida's presentation will examine how social and political contexts influenced the understanding of the Nanjing Massacre in Japan, China and the U.S. from 1937 to present. The discussion will include analysis of American and Japanese propaganda and the role that Allied occupation played in the democratization of Japan. Using visual images to engage the audience, Yoshida's presentation underscores the importance of critical thinking skills in evaluating historical sources and their biases. This event is free and LBC approved.

2016 STAR LECTURE SERIES: The Honors College is pleased to present the 2016 Star Lecture Series "A Life Well Lived: Improving Race Relations on Campus, within the Community and in the Workplace." The lectures are as follows:

- Doris Fields, professor of communication history will talk on Tuesday, Jan. 19, from 7 - 8:30 p.m. in the Halle Auditorium. Fields will discuss how to improve communication messages in the university setting can lead to successful communication opportunities in the workplace, personal lives and the community. This lecture will examine of the influence of mass media on racial/ethnic identities and the link between interracial/interethnic communication and friendships.
- Cheyenne Luzynski will talk on "Leadership is a CHOICE" on Tuesday, Feb. 9, from 7 - 8:30 p.m. in the Halle Auditorium. Luzynski will talk about leadership skills and abilities have been increasingly critical for college students to explore and develop as they prepare for post college endeavors. This lecture will provide an upbeat approach to leadership and practical concepts to help make positive daily improvements. It is through the lens of leadership that students will gain an understanding for the relational aspects and formal and informal roles of pursuing a life well-lived. In this interactive and thought-provoking lectures students will engage in critical reflection, small group discussion, and activities designed to empower and inspire.
- Daniel Seely will present "The Language that Separates Us" on Tuesday, Mar. 8, from 7 - 8:30 p.m. in the Halle Auditorium. In one sense, language separates us: speakers of different languages generally don't understand each other, and speakers of the same, but different 'dialects' of a language may make (conscious and unconscious) judgments about each other as 'different.' But, in another sense, language unifies us: at a deep level of abstraction, and considered from a biological perspective, there is just one human language, i.e. there is the human capacity for language, which all humans share and which seems to distinguish humans from other species. Seely's talk will explore current linguistic research about the nature of language, providing students with the opportunity to learn more about language and how it can both divide and unite us.
