Thelma McDaniel's Life Is Dramatizing

As a young girl growing up in Staten Island, New York, Thelma McDaniel was partial to acting. In her own words, "I just loved doing plays."

And those childhood years set the tone for Ms. McDaniel’s entire life. “I’ve spent my entire life dramatizing,” the EMU dramatic arts professor says. For McDaniel, that means devoting her life to giving youngsters “positive theatre experiences we know are appropropriate for them.” She accomplishes this by taking her Little Theatre of the Young company on tour to about 30 elementary schools each year.

“It’s such fun because the response is so immediate,” McDaniel says. “But that response does not usually come in the form of applause, especially with five and six-year-olds, who have not yet learned the conventions of theatre. Instead, she says, they come in the form of widened eyes, raised eyebrows, giggles of amusement or squeals of delight.”

“It is very satisfying,” Ms. McDaniel says. “I feel that anybody who works with youngsters has a bond with them, and I have an inherent commitment to material that helps give them insight and promotes lasting values.

Literacy only draws heavily on folk tales for its dramatic material, says Ms. McDaniel. “They use their minds in an abstract way—no longer do they have to be confined to the material.”

Ms. McDaniel says her acting standards for that kind of work in her profession are extremely high and the students must take their work seriously.

“I choose members of the company who have the ability to communicate and express ideas, who have to have boundless energy. They have to have a respect for children and an appreciation of childhood and the material they’re doing for them.”

Ms. McDaniel has a large pool of such students from which she selects. The students studying in Eastern’s popular minor in Child and Drama, she says, are extremely high and the students must take their work seriously.

Changes in Political Science Major Minor for Fall, 1977

Students will be required to complete six restricted electives on the major rather than four, as in the past. These restricted electives will be required rather than three.

Under the category of American Politics, 313 and 313 American Constitution will no longer be included in the restricted electives. PLS 280, The American Presidency, and 385, Judicial Behavior, will be added to this area.

Under the category of Foreign Political Systems, PLS 273, Governments and Politics of South and Southeast Asia, will no longer be included on the list of restricted electives.

Changes in Psychology Major for Fall, 1977

PST 207, Psychology of Adjustment, will no longer be included in the restricted elective category of Adjustment and Personality.

Music Therapy

The Music Therapy Curriculum will not be offered fall, 1977, due to faculty cut-out. The intercollegial Law will no longer be included in restricted electives.

Undergraduate withdrawals

Undergraduate students have until March 1 to withdraw from individual classes. Students who want to withdraw from a class should pick up a withdrawal form at the Academic Services Center (2nd floor, Pierce), get the instructor’s signature and then return the form in person to the Academic Services Center.

Students who want to withdraw from fall classes for which they are currently registered go to Registration, Briggs Hall.

Men's Varsity Athletes Prove Themselves in Classroom

Eastern's men's varsity athletes proved themselves in the classroom as well as on the playing field. A total of 56 varsity athletes achieved academic scores of 3.0 (B) or better during the fall semester. The average grade point averages of 3.0 (B) or better during fall 1975.

Bob Parks' track squad led the way with 30 scholar-athletes followed by football with 9, baseball 7, basketball and tennis 6, swimming and gymnastics wrestling and golf 1.

Eastern's football team had five of its seven members above 3.0 and had a mean grade point average of 3.36. Eastern also had grade point averages of 3.36 and 3.60 respectively last semester. Slater is a returning starter on that MAC honor squad.

Two of coach Ed Chibek's football players received mention on the Mid-American Conference all-academic team: Jim Willoughby (Miami-Western) and George Kincaid (Miami-Western), who were both above 3.0 for the scholar-athletes list for women's varsity teams will be announced shortly.

Faculty Recital

SCHEDULED FEB. 15

Faculty member Emily Lowe, soprano, will present a recital Tuesday, Feb. 15, at 8 p.m. in the University Union. Miss Lowe will perform in the recital program which will be assisted by guitarist Nelson Amos, flutist Kent Keirn (Royal Oak-Kimbell), Richard Keirn (Royal Oak-Kimbell), Mark Willoughby (Ann Arbor-Huron).

Included on the program will be a selection of six songs from the Deutsche Oper at the University of Wisconsin

There were also 10 hurons qualified for the next fiscal year. According to President William M. Beauchamp, who was present at the Senate meeting, the increase in Eastern's state appropriation is the result of increased national tax revenues, coupled with the administration's skillful handling of the University's fiscal affairs.

It is expected that the extra funds will be used to increase the University's educational program and to improve the quality of instruction and facilities. President Beauchamp expressed his appreciation to the Board of Trustees and the Michigan Legislature for their support of Eastern Michigan University.

The Senate, at its Tuesday, Jan. 26

The Senate, at its Tuesday, Jan. 26 meeting was presented with a slide show by Dean of Student Affairs Mr. Masten. The slide presentation included information on the history of the Eastern Michigan University and the various departments and organizations that make up the University.

The Senate also approved an increase in the student body of four percent, which will bring the total enrollment to approximately 4,000 students.

The Senate also approved a resolution, introduced by Senator Richard Keirn, that would establish a new academic department, the Department of Communication Sciences and Disorders. The new department would be responsible for the education and training of future communication professionals in the fields of speech-language pathology and audiology.

It is expected that the new department will enhance the University's offerings in these areas and provide students with opportunities for advanced study and research.

Furthermore, the Senate approved a resolution that would establish a new student organization, the EMU Speech and Hearing Club. The club would be open to all students interested in the fields of speech-language pathology and audiology.

The Senate also approved a resolution that would increase the University's budget by $1 million, which will be used to support the University's educational programs and facilities. The Senate also approved a resolution that would increase the University's tuition by two percent, which will help to cover the costs of operating the University.

The Senate also approved a resolution that would establish a new student organization, the EMU Student Senate, which would represent the interests of the student body to the University administration.

March 1977 Annual Salary Survey and Occupational Outlook Handbook, prepared by the Bureau of Labor Statistics, are based partly on data conducted at the National Archives and the Academy of Sciences in Budapest in the summer of 1975. It will be published in a special issue of the Canadian American Review of Hungarian Studies in the near future, which is authored by a selected group of Canadian, Swiss and American scholars.

Professor Rac is now working on another article dealing with the newly introduced international Law Textbook at the University of Budapest. He also has been invited by the Canadian-American Review of Hungarian Studies to be a member of its editorial board.

Robert Bolesanone, dean of the College of Human Services, recently published a paper entitled "Administrators Support the Concept of Mandatory Continuing Education for the Profession," in the fall 1976 issue of "Hospital and Health Services Administration."

Barbara Rac, professor of political science, published a review article in the fall issue of the Canadian-American Review of Hungarian Studies, about the book entitled "Crime and Compromise," written by William Showcross, member of the editorial staff of the London Sunday Times. Professor Rac had the opportunity to arrange a personal meeting with Mr. Showcross in London during the past summer.

Professor Rac also finished an article under the title "The Policy of Re-Centralization in Hungary 1974-76."
