YPSILANTI, Mich. (EMUeagles.com) -- After taking a two-week break from action, the Eastern Michigan University rowing team will head to Tuscaloosa, Ala. for the Alabama Dual Saturday, April 5. The Eagles will race both the Crimson Tide and the Southern Methodist University Mustangs at 9 a.m. on the Black Warrior River.

The Green and White will be racing a variety of boats with its Varsity 8+ consisting of Sarah Hillegonds, Ashley Gilmore, Taylor Cyr, K.C. Anderson, Lyndsey Tollas, Emily Kent, Steph Schlosser, Krista Burdick and Sidney Doss.

EMU is looking to pick up its first top-three finish of the season at the Alabama Dual, while the Crimson Tide grabbed two victories in the Second and Third Varsity 4 events against Tennessee earlier this season as well as wins against Sacramento State and San Diego State, March 22. Alabama also secured victories in four of its six races against St. Mary’s, March 23.

SMU grabbed victories of its own against Drake in the First and Second Varsity 8+ as well as the Varsity 4+, March 29, while the First Varsity 8 squad turned in its fastest time of the spring against Drake.

The Eagles will be back in action Saturday, April 12 when they travel to Spring Lake, Mich. for the Lubbers Cup.
