On this day... In 1975, members of the Homebrew Computer Club held their first meeting. Homebrew Computer Club was an early computer hobbyist group in Silicon Valley that existed until Dec. 1986. Several very high-profile hackers and computer entrepreneurs emerged from its ranks, including the founders of Apple Inc. The open exchange of ideas that went on at its biweekly meetings, and the club newsletter, launched the personal computer revolution.

Quote: "Big shots are only little shots who keep shooting." - Christopher Morley
