PHOENIX, Ariz. (EMUEagles.com) — Eastern Michigan University’s men’s and women’s swimming Head Coach Peter Linn was the recent recipient of a three-page spread in the March 2014 edition of Swimming World Magazine. The article provides an in-depth look at Linn’s recruiting and training methods over his 26 years at EMU.

Linn, who has accrued a record of 183-56 in his 26 years as the men’s coach and a 58-35 count over his nine-year tenure as the women’s coach, has been honored as the Mid-American Conference Coach of the Year on nine occasions during his time mentoring the Eagle swimmers. Michael J. Scott’s article in Swimming World Magazine touches on Linn’s influences as a coach, his recruiting process, and the values that he looks to instill in his athletes. The spread also features a piece on Linn’s four-year training plan with All-American Jacob Hanson, who capped off his career as an Eagle with a fourth-place finish in the 200 backstroke at the 2013 NCAA Swimming Championships.

The article is available in the March 2014 edition of Swimming World Magazine on pages 47-49, and can also be found via www.swimmingworldmagazine.com.
